HOUGHS NECK Maritime Center will be torn down this fall and a new boat ramp will be installed in its place and should be ready for use next spring. The new ramp will be wider and steeper than the one it is replacing, allowing boaters to use it more often. Designs for a new maritime center, which will be located nearby, are now being finalized.

23 Qualify For Fall Election

- Preliminary Election For Mayor, Ward 1 Council Seat Sept. 10;
- Other Contests For School Seats, City Councillor Wards 3, 5, 6
- Aug. 21 Deadline To Register To Vote For Preliminary Election

By SCOTT JACKSON

The 23 candidates who submitted their nomination papers to run in this fall's municipal election have qualified for the ballot, including the three candidates running for mayor, the five candidates seeking an at-large seat on the City Council, and the four candidates running for School Committee.

The election will also feature contests for the Ward 1, 3, 5 and 6 seats on the council.

The deadline to submit nomination papers, along with the signatures of 50 people registered to vote in the city, to the Board of Registrars of Voters passed on July 19. The 23 residents submitted nomination papers before the deadline; four others who pulled papers did not return them.

City Clerk Nicole Crispo said all 23 candidates had their nomination papers, including the voters' signatures, certified. In addition, all 23 submitted their statements of candidacy ahead of the Aug. 6 deadline to do so. The deadline for withdrawals and objections is 5 p.m. on Aug. 9.

Maritime Center Demo This Fall

By SCOTT JACKSON

Starting in mid-September, the city will raze the Houghs Neck Maritime Center and install a new boat ramp on site ahead of next year's boating season. Meanwhile, the building that would replace the maritime center is still being designed and community meetings on those plans could be held later this year.

The maritime center building, located at 137 Bayview Ave., will be torn down to make way for the new boat ramp, which is currently located nearby. The replacement for the maritime center will sit in the vicinity of where the boat ramp is now located; the building is being moved to higher ground.

Ward 1 Councillor David McCarthy said the first phase of the project, the demolition of the building and installation of the new boat ramp, will start shortly af-

South Shore YMCA Receives AG Office Grant To Promote Physical Activity For Y Campers

The South Shore YMCA has received a $3,465 grant from the office of state Atty. Gen. Maura Healey to underwrite the participation of two camp counselors at the Y's Camp Quirk in Quincy. The two positions were specially created to promote the health of young campers through nutrition programming, healthy eating, physical activity, and more.

In total, AG Healey's office is giving nearly $322,000 in grants to 100 organizations across the state this summer - including the SSYMCA - as part of its Healthy Summer Youth Jobs Grant program to fund jobs for young people that are focused on health and wellness.

"Our annual summer jobs program provides young people with an opportunity to challenge themselves, develop new skills and make a difference in their communities," Healey said. "We are pleased to support the South Shore YMCA with this funding that will help keep young people safe and active this summer."

The Y offers a variety of youth-centered programs, including summer day and resident camps, after-school activities and mentorship programs. At Y summer camps, kids from all socioeconomic backgrounds have the opportunity to learn, grow and thrive.

"Through this grant, two positions were funded for the summer: an aquatics specialist, who is helping to teach kids swim lessons and water safety with a special focus on staying active in the pool, and a sports specialist who is helping to bring different and unique games to kids," said Phil Gay, director, Camp Quirk.

"The camp experience gives children a sense of belonging. It gives them a place where they are safe to try new things, to be themselves, and make new friends. The positions funded by this grant will help to contribute directly to that experience."

QUINCY'S AIDAN BROPHY, age 9, won the 7-9 competition at the local qualifier for the Drive, Chip and Putt Golf Championship held July 24 at Granite Links Golf Course in Quincy. There were four age groups and they were divided into boys and girls qualifiers. In the competition children are awarded points for how far their drives were, how close to the hole their chip shots were and how close they could get with their putts. Aidan bested 25 other boys on the strength of his putting where he sank all three putts he attempted, from 6 feet, 15 feet and 30 feet. Aidan also finished in third in the chipping. Having won the local qualifier Aidan will advance to the sub regional qualifier on Aug. 14 at Pinehills Golf Club in Plymouth.

In connection with this grant, Healey visited Camp Quirk summer day campers on July 25. While on site, she was able to meet with one of the teens hired through the funding. Mostafa (Moose) Al-Ibrahimi, Sports Specialist at Camp Quirk, stepped away from a lively game of Quidditch with his campers to speak about his experience in the specialist position this far.

"I love the work and am grateful for Attorney General Healey's support of the Y," said Al-Ibrahimi. "Through this position, I'm learning that failure can be positive, it's a learning step. Not every game that I plan will work out with the kids and it's helping me to learn how to modify and adjust on the fly. I was a camper here when I was younger, and so I was very excited to hear about this position and get started in helping kids be active and stay healthy while school is out. There's a lot of diversity around here - we offer so much for kids to take advantage of and there's something for everybody.

"Through my position here at camp this summer, I'm glad that I'm able to help kids stay active and healthy."

Healey's Healthy Summer Youth Jobs Grant Program will fund employment for young people at the organizations from July 8, through Aug. 30. This grant is in addition to a separate $70,000 grant from the Attorney General's office that the South Shore Y received last month for teacher instruction.

"This grant provides us with an exciting opportunity to expand our work with young children in the Quincy area through specialized activities within our day camp programming," said Paul Gorman, president and CEO of the South Shore YMCA. "We're looking forward to promoting healthy living and youth development in new and unique ways thanks to this grant, and are grateful for the ongoing, positive collaboration between the attorney general and the South Shore YMCA."

ZBA Delays Vote On Huckins Avenue Home

By SCOTT JACKSON

Neighbors voiced their opposition to the demolition of a single-family home in Squantum, which would be replaced by a new single-family home, during a recent meeting of the Zoning Board of Appeals.

The ZBA continued to the public hearing on the plan for three weeks, to give the owner of the home in question time to consider revisions that would lessen the new structure's impact on his neighbors' views of the ocean.

Tanner Payne, the owner of the property at 179 Huckins Ave., went before the board on July 23 for permission to raze the existing non-conforming home on site and replace it with a new single-family home. The new home would have a different layout than the old one but would remain non-conforming because it would not be set far enough back from the street.

The ZBA will take up the matter again on Aug. 13.

Payne's attorney, Alex Ritchie, said the applicant purchased the home earlier this year and planned to renovate it. He is now seeking to build a new home on site in part because the current home is susceptible to flood damage.

"My client, Tanner Payne, purchased 179 Huckins Ave. in January 2019 intending to rehabilitate the existing structure," Ritchie said. "However, after consulting with his architect and engineer, it became clear that this approach was untenable for a number of reasons, one of which is that the existing foundation and first-floor elevation made no accommodation for impeding flood waters on the bayside and posed a risk for significant structural damage during flood events going forward."

Curtis Connors, an attorney for the Callanan family, who live next door at 173 Huckins Ave., said his clients were concerned about the project for several reasons. Connors said Payne planned to rent out the new home through Airbnb or flip the property after the home was built; Payne later told the board he planned to live on site.

Connors also said the home was used for auto repairs at one point and could contain hazardous materials

JEWELRY APPRAISALS

Many industry insurance experts recommend having your jewelry appraised every five years. Your favorite jewelry store can help you with that. They will be able to give you an appraisal on everything from the special bracelet passed down to you from your grandmother to the ring your husband gave you on your tenth anniversary. Appraisals are a crucial step in protecting your items against loss, theft, or damage. You will receive a document describing your item in detail, assessing its quality, and assigning a current value. When deciding on an appraiser, you should check out their credentials both in appraisal and gemology, their knowledge of manufacturing, and, of course, their experience and reputation.

When you need an appraisal for your fine jewelry for insurance purposes or an estate settlement, we suggest you trust this important matter to a professional jeweler with a reputation for fairness, knowledge, experience, and integrity. For all your jewelry needs, Rogers Jewelry stands ready to serve you. We also suggest that having the settings and clasps of your fine jewelry periodically checked is another important part of protecting your investment, as are cleanings and repairs. At 1402 Hancock St. in Quincy Center, we also pay top dollar for gold and platinum and old and/or unwanted jewelry. PH: 617-773-3636.

Access the equity in your home or free up cash monthly Here's how...

Maybe you'd love to access the equity in your home but you're nervous about taking out an adjustable home equity line with interest rates rising. Or maybe you went with a shorter term and that monthly payment has become a burden. This is something that could work for you - refinance into a new 30-year mortgage. With 30-year rates still so low, lower than fixed-rate equity loans, it's definitely a home equity loan/line alternative. And also a way to free up cash monthly and make your life easier. Would a new 30-year loan be right for you? It's easy to find out. Apply online or call Angela Blanchard at 617-471-0750. Colonial Federal, a bank with ideas.

Gasoline Prices Remain Same According To AAA Survey

Gasoline prices in Massachusetts remain the same this week, according to AAA Northeast.

AAA's July 29 survey of prices in Massachusetts finds self-serve, regular unleaded averaging $2.70 per gallon. The Massachusetts price is three cents lower than the national average for regular unleaded of $2.73. A year ago at this time, the average price in Massachusetts was 12 cents higher at $2.82.

The range in prices in the latest AAA survey for unleaded regular is 74 cents, from a low of $2.45 to a high of $3.19. AAA advises motorists to shop around for the best prices in their area, and to make sure they, and their passengers buckle up — every time.

McCallum Investigation Still Ongoing

By SCOTT JACKSON

The investigation into the death of a 44-year-old father of three from Bridgewater continues six months after he died after he was found unconscious outside the American Legion post in Squantum.

Christopher W. McCallum was rushed to Boston Medical Center on Jan. 27 after Quincy police responded to reports of a "large disorder" at the Nickerson Post, located at 20 Moon Island Rd., shortly after 1 a.m. McCallum was found unconscious and bleeding outside the building that morning, prosecutors have said, and he succumbed to his injuries the afternoon of Jan. 28 while at Boston Medical Center.

David Traub, the spokesman for the Norfolk District Attorney's Office, said the investigation into McCallum's death remains ongoing.

"The investigation remains open as law enforcement awaits the medical examiner's report," Traub said on Monday.

When he was asked when the medical examiner's report would be completed, Traub responded, "the timeline is not in our control."

McCallum's death certificate is listed as pending on the online database for the Boston registrar's office and does not include a cause of death.

Family members have said McCallum was at the Nickerson Post that night to attend a concert and was fatally injured while attempting to break up a fight that erupted after a group of men attempted to re-enter the building after being kicked out earlier.

McCallum is survived by his wife, Kathleen "Kathy" (Doyle), and their three sons, Ryan, Michael and Christopher.

McCallum grew up on Deerfield Street in Squantum and was a 1992 graduate of North Quincy High School. He was captain of the Red Raiders football and hockey teams his senior year and was inducted into the Quincy-North Quincy High Football Hall of Fame in 2016.

McCallum then attended the Massachusetts Maritime Academy, where he continued playing football, and graduated in 1996. He went on to work as an engineer after college.

More than 500 people attended a candlelight vigil in McCallum's memory Feb. 15 outside the Squantum Elementary School.

"Chris was assaulted Jan. 27 at the Nickerson Post here in Squantum as he tried to break up a fight and he suffered a fatal head injury," Kathy McCallum told the crowd that evening. "We are extremely appreciative to the Massachusetts State Police for their unending efforts to seek justice for Chris and our family."

Kathy McCallum urged anyone who knew what happened to her husband to come forward to investigators.

"Please clear your conscience and tell the truth — even lies of omission lead to injustice," she said.

"As our families struggle to move forward in a world without Chris, we ask that in his memory and in remembrance of how he lived, please be kind to one another."

William McCallum, Christopher's father, said his son was unselfish and kind.

"If anyone ever needed any help, he was the first one there to help. He'd drive 30 miles from Bridgewater to Squantum to help me," William McCallum told The Sun at the vigil. "He'd do anything. He'd even come over on his lunch hour to help."

"He was just a great guy — and I'm not saying that because he was my son. He was just a great overall guy."

Dan Gilmartin, a friend of McCallum for more than 30 years, remembered him as a "heck of an athlete, but more than that he was a true gentleman. I remembered him handling himself with class and dignity even as a kid. He was a big, tough guy, but he was always gentle and kind. He was always smiling and always the first one to stick his hand out to help somebody."

Two preliminary elections will take place on Sept. 10 to whittle down the number of candidates running in the races for mayor and Ward 1 councillor from three to two.

The preliminary election will cost between $80,000 and $85,000, Crispo said, inclusive of all costs such as printing ballots, advertising for the election, and pay for election workers and police details. The money to pay for the preliminary election was included in this year's municipal budget, the city clerk said; she anticipated holding a citywide preliminary when she drafted the budget for the election department.

Crispo said turnout in the preliminary election could be somewhere in the range of 30 to 35 percent. She based the estimate on the 2015 citywide preliminary, which included a four-person mayoral field and council races in Wards 2 and 3.

"We had a 30.2 percent turnout that year," Crispo said. "Ward 1 is active, so I would say in the end it will be in the same range — 30 to 35 percent."

A drawing to determine ballot position for the preliminary election is scheduled for Aug. 16. Crispo said she would ask the candidates for permission to move the drawing up to Aug. 12, so the city can get ballots printed sooner.

Absentee balloting for the preliminary will begin as soon as the ballots are ready, Crispo said, and will end at noon on Sept. 9. The deadline to register to vote in the preliminary election is 8 p.m. on Aug. 21.

The three candidates who qualified for the ballot in the mayoral race are: incumbent Thomas Koch of 249 Newbury Ave. and challengers Tracey Dorgan of 108 Sherman St. and Brenda Ryan of 14 Cranch St. Koch was first elected mayor in 2007 and was re-elected to two-year terms in 2009, 2011 and 2013. In 2015, he was elected to a four-year term — the first in Quincy's history after voters approved doubling the mayoral term in a 2013 referendum.

A win for Koch would make him the longest-serving mayor in the city's history. Two other mayors — Amelio Della Chiesa and James Sheets — each served for 12 years. Della Chiesa served for four years under a Plan E form of government and then eight years under Plan A; Sheets' entire tenure was under Plan A, the city's current form of government.

The three residents to qualify for the ballot in the race for the Ward 1 seat on the City Council are: incumbent David McCarthy of 48 Whitney Rd. and challengers Danielle Kempe of 1 Adams St. and Joseph Murphy of 18 Macy St. McCarthy is seeking his second two-year term on the council.

The top two vote getters in each contest will advance to the Nov. 5 final election. The deadline to register to vote in November is 8 p.m. on Oct. 16 and absentee balloting ends at noon on Nov. 4.

All three incumbent at-large councillors — Noel DiBona of 70 Chickatabot Rd., Nina Liang of 2 Williams St. and Anne Mahoney of 12 Ferriter St. — qualified for this year's ballot, as did challengers Frank Rubino of 5 Whiton Ave. and Joann Sullivan Cantor of 316 Fenno St. DiBona and Liang are seeking their third two-year terms and Mahoney is running for her second term.

Two residents — William Burke of 28 Rice Rd. and John Rodophele of 62 Grenwood Rd. — pulled papers to run for an at-large seat but did not return them. A preliminary election would have been necessary if all seven candidates qualified for the ballot.

The four candidates in the running for the three School Committee seats available in the fall election include incumbents Paul Bregoli of 80 Willow Ave. and Kathryn Hubley of 44 Marion St. as well as challengers Courtney Perdios of 86 Ruggles St. and Frank Santoro of 14 Lois Ter. Bregoli and Hubley are each seeking their third four-year term on the committee. Santoro previously served on the committee for two terms as well.

The third incumbent school board member, James DeAmicis, is not seeking a second term.

The two candidates to qualify in the race for the Ward 3 seat are incumbent Ian Cain of 8 Highpoint Cir. and challenger Eriberto Soto, Jr., of 627 Adams St. Cain is seeking his third two-year term.

Kirsten Hughes, the incumbent Ward 5 councillor, is not seeking re-election to the seat she has held since 2012. Two candidates are vying to replace her: Stephen Christo of 42 Standish Ave. and Charles Phelan of 298 Fenno St. Phelan formerly represented Ward 5 on the council from 1988 to 1996.

Two residents who had pulled papers to run for Ward 5 councillor did not return them: Mary Lally, 10 Weston Ave. and Christopher DeCambra, 25 Langley Cir.

In Ward 6, incumbent William Harris of 74 Ashworth Rd. and challenger William Isenberg of 36 Carle St. both qualified for the ballot. Harris is seeking his third term.

Ward 2 Councillor Brad Croall of 92 Viden Rd. and Ward 4 Councillor Brian Palmucci of 16 Cross St. will be unopposed in the fall. Croall is seeking his fifth term and Palmucci is seeking his sixth.

A VIEW FROM THE CHURCH, HOUGHS NECK, MASS.

THIS 1907 POSTCARD view of Houghs Neck shows the old St. Francis by the Sea Catholic Church near the corner of Winthrop Street and Manet Avenue. The view is towards the north. The cottage on the right was one of the largest in the Neck and was owned by George Morton who established the Manet Street Railway that brought trolleys to service the neighborhood. He was also president of the Quincy Savings Bank. Fr. Francis Frigugliette, who was known as Quincy's pastor, established the church here for summer visitors in 1893 as a mission church of Saint John's Parish in Quincy Center. He also opened Sacred Heart Church in North Quincy and Saint Francis of Assisi in Braintree. This church was demolished 100 years ago in 1919 when Most Blessed Sacrament Church was established as a parish.

Beaches Need Clean-Up Funds, Not Lawsuits

As a long distance runner, there's nothing I love more than running along our beautiful Massachusetts shoreline. Unfortunately, some sections of shoreline are cleaner than others.

Four of the 10 most contaminated beach sites in Massachusetts are in Quincy, according to a recent report by Environment America Research & Policy Center and the Frontier Group. These are at Channing Street, Sachem Street, Milton Road and Rice Road. These sites had 10 to 18 potentially unsafe swimming days in 2018, due to fecal bacteria.

Earlier this year, the EPA sued the city for its sewage-polluted beaches, threatening daily fines of up to $54,833.

Quincy beaches have been improving, as Quincy has spent $30 million on repairing the aging sewer system, much of that work spearheaded by Mayor Thomas Koch.

Massachusetts ranks 9th in federal tax dollars paid, but only 39th in federal aid received (2016 numbers).

We don't need lawsuits from the federal government. Rather, more of the money we pay in federal taxes needs to stay in the state to repair our crumbling infrastructure.

Rubino Outlines Steps To Reduce Traffic Congestion

For the past several weeks, I've been canvassing the neighborhoods speaking with residents, and one of the concerns I hear repeatedly is worsening traffic congestion in our city. Here are 6 areas we as a city should focus on to reduce traffic congestion:

1. Re-examine the zoning laws

We're not the same city we were as recently as 5 years ago. Multi-family residential developments have popped up everywhere, bringing more cars and traffic with them. Let's take a step back and assess where we currently stand. Let's inventory housing for the entire city to see which areas have become overly saturated. We can craft some thoughtful adjustments to the zoning laws with an eye towards preventing additional traffic congestion. For example, current zoning laws prohibit multi-family developments in Squantum and Houghs Neck. Perhaps we extend that to Merrymount and Montclair as well.

2. Better enforcement of zoning laws

Across the city, we have single-family homes inappropriately being used as multi-families. Every bedroom in the house is rented out. The dining room is being used as a bedroom. As a result, instead of 1-2 cars per house, there is now 4, 5, or 6. I think this is something that needs to be on the city council's radar more. A single-family home should only be used as such. I'm curious as to how inspection services is dealing with this situation.

3. Water transportation

We are so fortunate here in Quincy to be located on the water, but we're not taking full advantage of it. Expanding ferry service to and from Boston has many benefits. Water transportation is environmentally friendly, requires little in the way of infrastructure, runs in most weather conditions, and is just as fast as ground transportation. There's no traffic, no accidents. The MBTA's Hingham-based ferry has the best on-time performance of all the T's different lines. Let's get all these cars off the road and swap them for ferries on the water. Many South Shore commuters pass through Quincy on their way to Boston. If we run a ferry from the Fore River Shipyard, these commuters will no longer need drive through Quincy, and it has the potential to significantly reduce traffic congestion.

4. Uber pick up/drop off locations

Instead of an Uber or Lyft stopping wherever they want to do a pick-up or drop off, let's create dedicated curbside space, in strategic locations, to minimize Uber's disruption to the regular flow of traffic. Boston, Cambridge and Somerville have implemented this initiative, to positive results, and the leadership at Uber and Lyft have also been supportive to the concept of Boston-area dedicated pick-up zones.

5. Safer intersections

MassDOT tracks the number of car accidents each year, by location, and has identified several high-crash intersections in Quincy such as Quincy Ave and Faxon Park Road, Southern Artery and Broad Street, the intersection of Willard, Stedman, and Quarry Streets, and the Beale Street-Newport Ave intersection. These intersections should be a priority when it comes to re-designs and safety improvements. Some of the worst traffic congestion is due to unexpected one-time events such as a car crash.

6. Adapt to a changing MBTA

Wollaston station will reopen this month. A new garage and mixed-use development at North Quincy station will be finished within the next year or two. Repair work is in progress over at Quincy Adams and Braintree stations, and the entire fleet of Red Line cars will be replaced between 2020 and 2023. In short, Quincy needs to prepare for a surge of people walking, biking and driving to our T stations. This means pedestrian-friendly intersections, more bike racks in strategic locations, and traffic signals that adjust to the changing patterns of cars entering and existing the stations.

Attacking the problem from several different angles, as this plan does, will yield noticeable results.

Contract Signed For Vo-Tech High School

Mayor Ameilo Della Chiesa signed a contract with Caudill, Rowlett and Scott for design of the city's new $5 million vocational-technical high school.

The signing marked the formal start of the project approved by the City Council last month. Other signers were John M. Rowlett, a partner in the firm, and Public Works Commissioner Charles R. Herbert. The contract includes a provision that the school must not cost more than the $5 million already authorized for the project.

CITY INCINERATOR ACTION BLOCKED

More than 500 Quarry St. area residents were granted a preliminary injunction blocking the city from proceeding with plans for a municipal incinerator at Hardwick's Quarry.

Atty. Harry Pavan said that he had filed a bill in equity at Norfolk Probate Court and received the restraining order.

The order blocks the city from taking any action towards building an incinerator in the Quarry Street area.

KEEPING UP WITH THE RED SOX

The Red Sox left Boston for a 22-day road trip during which the club was scheduled to play 19 games. Sox Manager Johnny Pesky hoped the team would "hold its own" during the lengthy trip. The Red Sox left for the road after sweeping a three game series with the Cleveland Indians. The Sox were in fifth place in the 10-team American League with a 50-51 record, 12 + games behind the league-leading New York Yankees.

Crane Library Children's Events, Activities July 31 - Aug. 6

By JULIE RINES
Children's Coordinator
Crane Public Library

The following events and activities for children are scheduled at the Thomas Crane Public Library July 30 - Aug. 6.

Summer Library Adventure - Universe of Stories

This summer we will be celebrating the 50th anniversary of the Apollo 11 Moon Landing and all things space with our Summer Library Adventure - Universe of Stories. Children ages 0-12 are invited to participate in our summer reading program and join us for 2 months of free summer activities.

Stop by any Quincy library location, check out our website or download the Beanstack Tracker app to register for our summer reading program. Complete 10 missions and you will be rewarded with a medal at our end of summer medal ceremony.

Visit our summer reading website at thomascranelibrary.org to learn about all of the other fun free activities coming up this summer.

Summer Library Quests

This summer, turn a walk around the library into a scavenger hunt. In the Children's room at the Main Library or at the North Quincy Branch, children can follow directions to hunt for letter clues to spell out a mystery phrase. At Wollaston we'll have hidden pictures to search for, find the picture and find a letter in our mystery word/phrase.

Younger children can search just in the Children's Room; older kids age 10 and up can try their luck with a puzzle that allows them to explore all the floors of the library. This is aimed at children who are able to read, but can be enjoyed by younger ones with the help of a parent.

LEGO Challenge @Wollaston

Are you up for the LEGO Challenge? Join us each Wednesday when we will have a new challenge to tackle and plenty of LEGO to do it! Come in any time between 2 and 4 p.m. and check out the challenge for the week. Can you build a vehicle using only one color of brick? How tall a tower can you make? Can you work with someone else to build a city? Join us and see what you can build every Wednesday this summer!

Pajama Storytime

Join us each Wednesday evening at 6:30 p.m. for a summer-long series of pajama storytimes designed especially for children aged 2-5 and their parents. Join us for 45 minutes of interactive stories, songs, and rhymes. This program is a great time for you and your children to sing, dance, listen, and talk with each other.

Liberated Crafts @North Quincy

Drop into the North Quincy Branch on Thursday afternoons between 2 and 4 p.m. for crafting without borders. Each week will feature a specific type of craft project, from animal visors to bookmarks, but your child can also use the materials to create something completely new. Our craft for Aug. 1st - doorhangers.

Esther Day

Esther Earl, a local Quincy resident, passed away from cancer in 2010. Her moving story "This Star Won't Go Out," inspired millions of readers. On Friday, Aug. 2nd from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. we will be celebrating her birthday with fun outdoor activities: games, music, and more on the lawn at the main library. This program is for families and children of all ages.

In case of inclement weather we will move indoors and play games there.

Children's Movie Matinee @North Quincy

On Monday afternoons at 2 p.m. this summer at the North Quincy Branch Library join us for a series of children's movie matinees. Aug. 5th "How to Tame Your Dragon: Hidden World" rated PG runtime 110 min.

Story Craft in the Main Library Children's Room

Stop by the Main Library Children's Room on Monday afternoon Aug. 5th at 2:30 p.m. to hear a space story and do a space themed craft. This program is for children ages 2-6 accompanied by an adult.

Alchemy Laboratory with

Ed the Wizard @North Quincy

Alchemy Class is about to begin! Magical Secrets are about to be shared! Enter the Alchemy Laboratory of Ed the Wizard on Tuesday, Aug. 6th at 2 p.m. at the North Quincy Branch. Watch, volunteer, and learn as we perform vanishes, transfigurations, and other feats of magic with everyday items found at home.!

Using three of the four Classical Greek Elements, Earth, Wind, Water, (sorry, no Fire), learn how to change the properties of water, look through solid objects, and defy gravity.

Learn about Alchemy, Scientific Principles, and the physical world at this magical science program. This program is for children ages 5 and older accompanied by an adult.

Space Crafts @ Adams Shore

Stop by the Adams Shore Branch on Tuesday afternoon Aug. 6th to do some crafting any time between 2 and 4 p.m. Each week we will be creating a different space themed craft. Be sure to drop in for some out of this world fun.

All programs sponsored and supported by the Friends of the Thomas Crane Public Library and the Quincy Cultural Council.

August Moon Festival On Coddington St. Aug. 18

Quincy Asian Resources, Inc. (QARI) and the City of Quincy will co-host the 2019 Quincy August Moon Festival Sunday, Aug. 18 from noon to 5 p.m. on Coddington Street in Quincy Center.

This year marks the 32nd anniversary of the festival in Quincy, one of the largest August Moon Festivals in the Northeast - which signify prosperity, happiness and gratitude. The Quincy August Moon Festival blends heritage with a modern take for a unique and diverse celebration.

The festival will feature both traditional and contemporary performances from lion/dragon dance to Cirque de Soleil juggling acrobat, Ryu, amusements for all ages, live mural art demo, oversized backyard games, food galore with a taste of Asia, street fare from food trucks and local restaurants, Craft Beer Garden and special celebrity chef demonstration with Chef Ashley Gaboriault of Quincy's Idle Hour, who famously beat Bobby Flay in last year's pre-Super Bowl chef showdown.

Guests are invited to enjoy the new addition of an environmental village with "be good to our planet" interactive activities plus live endangered species exhibits. Keeping with eco-friendly theme, guests are encouraged to bike to the festival and enjoy free bike valet, helmet decorating, and free safety checks with QuinCycles on the Thomas Crane Library lawn.

Fan favorite, the August Moon Remix - Remixed! will return featuring hip hop, rap, r&b and pop artists plus jazz-rock fusion band. Families can visit the expanded Kids Zone with a free petting zoo, free pony rides, South Shore YMCA family stage, and cultural crafts and activities. Festival-goers are invited to bring lawn chairs and picnic blankets to take in the day's performances.

The festivities begin with opening ceremonies and the Dragon Dance at noon.

The public is invited to join QARI, The City of Quincy, presenting sponsor South Cove Community Health Center, Media Partner WEEI on Aug. 18th in a diverse celebration.

This event is free and open to the community. Guests are encouraged to take the T or ride their bikes to the event. Vendor opportunities are available (pending capacity). For more information, contact events@quincyasianresources.org or visit quincyasianresources.org.

For more information updated regularly, follow QARI on Facebook, Twitter and Instagram at @QARI1509.

Quincy's Memory Café

Hosted by Standish Village at the Kennedy Center
Monday, Aug. 12th at 1:30 P.M.

Brought to you by Julie Platz, director of Communications for Standish Village Assisted Living & Compass Memory Support, Quincy's Memory Café welcomes those living with memory loss or dementia and their care partners, family and friends. Our Memory Café provides a safe and supportive gathering place for friends with varying levels of memory loss to relax and enjoy conversation with their care partners and family over pastries and coffee. There will be varied monthly offerings for an engaging and participatory experience. While Memory Café is open to anyone in the community, any guest who requires a personal care attendant must have a caregiver present. Call 617-376-1243 to register for the café or with any questions.

Brain Health Workshop Tuesday, Aug. 13th

Session 1: 10-11 A.M., Session 2: 11:30 A.M. -12:30 P.M.

Are you age 50-90? Finding it more difficult to remember faces, names and dates? Wondering "Is my memory normal or should I see my doctor?" Old Orchard Beach Maine Memory Lane Entertainment Wednesday, Aug. 21st at 1:30 P.M.

Memory Lane Entertainment presents the fabulously popular Memory Lane Shows. Come take a walk down memory lane as we reminisce about the days spent at Old Orchard Beach in Maine. While the shows are extraordinarily entertaining in their own right, they were designed to serve a deeper purpose. They take advantage of a fairly recent discovery by neuroscientists, called the music memory connection, to stimulate a particular region of the brain that, in turn, brings back long forgotten memories and "reawakens the brain." The Memory Lane Shows bring seniors together to laugh, interact and recall special memories of their past. These interactive shows, which incorporate images, movie clips, and music are designed to awaken long forgotten memories and boost mood. Join us for an afternoon of fun, memories and song! $5 per person. Registration is required and payment is required at time of registration.

Monthly Birthday Party Celebration Monday, Aug. 26th at 1:30 P.M.

At Hamel-Lydon Chapel, we also believe in the celebration of life. Come join us at the Kennedy Center for cake and ice cream if it's your birthday! And even if it's not, come and join us for our celebration! Sponsored by Hamel-Lydon Chapel. Reservations are required. Call 617-376-1506.

Street Magic Acapella Wednesday, Aug. 28th at 6:30 P.M.

Join us for a special evening event at the Kennedy Center. Enjoy the clean, smooth sound of the acapella doo-wop group Street Magic. Registration is required. Purchase your tickets at the Kennedy Center. Cost is $15 per person.

Bryan Turner Graduates Arizona State University

Bryan Turner of Quincy recently graduated with honors from Arizona State University (W.P. Carey School of Business) with a bachelor of science degree in supply chain management.

GreenFest & TechExpo Aug. 16-18

Foundation for a Green Future announces the 12th Annual Boston GreenFest & TechExpo will be held on Aug. 16-18 at Rose Kennedy Greenway, Long Wharf, and Hennessy's Upstairs.

"Boston GreenFest spans age, culture, and industry with the goal of creating solutions to environmental issues at hand, through the arts and innovation," said Gov. Charles D. Baker.

The largest environmental festival in the Northeast, the 12th Annual Boston GreenFest & TechExpo offers New England will feature a wide range of activities and exhibits showcasing models of sustainable opportunities for families, neighborhoods, and workplaces to emulate and make their own.

This three-day celebration is filled with exhibits, fun activities, EcoRide & Drive, EcoFashion, music, dance, robots, healthy food, eco-vendors, gardening, and DIY workshops along with a Green TechExpo and Smart City Pavilion. The Green TechExpo will let visitors experience new green technologies developed by up-and-coming startups throughout the day on Saturday, Aug. 17th. The Boston Green FilmFest will feature some very compelling environmental documentaries of our time including STRAWS, Home, Terra, and Paris to Pittsburgh. The Smart City Pavilion will give festival-goers the chance to explore technologies that will bring our city fully into the 21st century in a sustainable way.

With more than 100 interactive exhibits, attendees will have the opportunity to meet people from across the globe who are teaming up to work towards a greener world.

Cheesy Biscuit

By MARIE

If you love biscuits then you are going to love today's recipe - especially if you like cheese too! The nice part of this biscuit recipe is that it is only three ingredients and very simple to make.

Preheat oven to 425

Prepare a cookie sheet with parchment paper

RECIPE AND INGREDIENTS:

2 cups of King Arthur unbleached, self-rising flour

1 cup sharp cheddar cheese (4 ounces)
1 cup of heavy cream

In a bowl place the flour, cut in the cheese and blend well.

Add the heavy cream and mix well until it forms a dough.

Put on a lightly floured board and roll out the dough.

Cut with biscuit cutter, or anything you have.

Place on cookie sheet and bake for 15 or 20 minutes until lightly browned.

Serve warm - and these delicious treats can be reheated in microwave.

Pad Thai

By SUSIE

Who needs take-out when you can make some fresh healthy Pad Thai at home?

8 oz pad thai rice noodles, cooked according to package directions, immediately rinsed with cold water and cooled

2 tablespoons virgin coconut oil

1 1/2 cups COOKED chicken, shrimp or any other COOKED protein of choice

4 cups broccoli florettes and thinly sliced stems

4 cloves garlic, minced

2 cups scallion, chopped into 1 inch pieces

1 cup lightly packed cilantro, chopped

4 oz mung bean sprouts (optional)

For the sauce:

2 tablespoons tomato paste

5 tablespoons tamari (wheat free soy sauce)

6 tablespoons coconut sap crystals (healthy sweetener) or brown sugar

1/4 cup fresh lime juice

2 tablespoons Sriracha

2 tablespoons mellow white miso

1/4 cup water

To serve:

3/4 cup chopped roasted cashews

Extra lime wedges

In the meantime, mix together all of the ingredients for the sauce and set aside.

Cook the broccoli in oil with a little salt. Cover the pan in between stirring, to get it to cook faster. It should take about 5 minutes, and be lightly charred in some places.

Transfer to the same plate as the chicken

Now we'll cook the sauce. Lower heat to medium. Cook the garlic in the remaining oil very briefly, about 15 seconds. Add the scallion and cilantro and toss just to get it wilted. Now pour in about half the sauce and get it heated through.

Add the noodles and toss to coat. Then add back the chicken and broccoli, the mung beans and the remaining sauce, and toss to coat.

Serve immediately, topped with cashews and lime wedges, plus extra cilantro if desired.

'The Color Of Lies' By CJ Lyons

'The Fine Print' Book Review

By BETH VACCA

In my writing you are becoming aware of my reading tendencies. My love for certain genres and, by the absence of reviews, my lack of interest in others. Thrillers fall into this latter category. Usually for one of two reasons. One, if it is too scary I will not be able to sleep. Or two, because I tend to figure out the ending before I should and thereby ruin all the fun. Enter in "Thrillers with Heart" writer CJ Lyons with her new young adult novel, "The Color of Lies." With just enough "thrill" to make it a "thriller," and with just enough foreshadowing to have you guess the ending, this book had all the tell tale signs of a "do not read" for me. However, as it so often happens, I was wrong.

The main character, Ella Cleary, has synesthesia, a rare medical condition that affects the senses. It is hereditary and manifests itself in different ways throughout her family. For Ella, she is able to see colors that surround people and reveal their true and mostly unspoken emotions. Until she meets a local undergraduate student, Alec, who exhibits no color at all.

Alec brings news of Ella's past which causes Ella to question her life as she knows it. In order to discover the truth Ella must risk everything she knows as safe. Will she be able to bear the truth if discovered or should she leave well enough alone?

This book was a page turner. Not for the "who done it" aspect of the story, but for the beautiful writing and the development of young adult characters finding their way. Ella deals with seeing colors in people. She must live with seeing people's emotions written all over them. How do you deal with friends who know you can see exactly how they are feeling? If you've been able to read people all your life based on what colors surround them how do you trust someone who exhibits no color?

Alec must also deal with color. He decides to follow his hopes and dreams to an out of state college where he will be in a vast minority due to the color of his skin. He begins to discover who he is away from the comfort of home and the people who have always loved him.

Working Women & Memory Decline: Is There A Connection?

A Message From Ruth Jones, City Of Quincy Health Commissioner

By RUTH JONES
MSPH, BSN, RN,
BC, CP-FS

According to a recent study, having a paying job might guard women against memory loss decades later.

Researchers at the University of California at Los Angeles, the University of California at San Francisco and Boston College tracked 6,836 American women born between 1935 and 1956 across about a 20 year span and collected their family and employment histories through age 50. The women underwent routine cognitive assessments including being asked to recall lists of words from memory for example, and complete questionnaires on cognitive decline. All participants were enrollees in the Health and Retirement Study, a federally funded long-term observational study of aging people spanning the United States.

Results revealed that women who engaged in paid employment between ages 16 and 50, whether mothers or non-mothers, had better memories in late life than women who did not work. The rate of memory decline was most rapid among women who never earned a wage. Married mothers, who did not work, for instance, saw their memory decline 61% faster over a 10-year period than those with paid jobs. The differences were even more alarming in single mothers whose memories deteriorated 83% faster if they did not participate in the workforce.

Memory loss is one of the first signs of Alzheimer's disease thus, those women who work for wages between early adulthood and middle age and experience slower memory decline, most likely are at lower risk of dementia.

Researchers cited the reason is because paid work may provide mental stimulation, financial benefits and social relationships that could limit declines in memory as women get older. They pointed out, these findings, especially if substantiated by further research, lead to the value of policies and programs that incentivize women's involvement in the workforce. Paid leave, affordable child care, equal pay for equal work and health insurance, all things that could help improve women's health in later life.

There are a multitude of studies that have demonstrated that people who are engaged have superior physical and cognitive well-being than those who are not. Additionally, scientists emphasize that when a healthcare provider sees a patient, they shouldn't just be inquiring about issues such as weight, blood pressure and exercise, they should also ask how patients spend their days.

Keep in mind that the majority, approximately two-thirds, of the 5.8 million Americans with Alzheimer's are women, according to the 2019 Alzheimer's Disease Facts & Figures Report. The UCLA study exposes a small piece in the puzzle of understanding why the disease is more prevalent among women.

Elizabeth Rose Mayeda, a professor at UCLA and the lead author of the study, highlighted that the study's results do not mean all stay-at-home mothers should seek out paid work to avoid dementia. Firstly, memory decline in old age does not inevitably lead to Alzheimer's; it simply means that a person possesses a higher risk of the illness. Secondly, Mayeda suggested that it may be feasible to create some of the health benefits provided, if working at home. She reiterated that it is not well-defined why paid employment would protect against memory loss, but noted that earlier research suggests that mental sharpness in later life is linked partly to cognitive stimulation and social gains, both events that are encountered in the workplace.

Nevertheless, she feels a person may be able to replicate that in the home setting by routinely doing things such as reading a newspaper, accomplishing crossword puzzles and spending time with neighbors.

The UCLA study did not ask women what type of employment they engaged in or what salary they earned. Mayeda pointed to a 2018 study, published in the Journal of Epidemiology and Community Health that indicated that more demanding jobs led to higher cognitive performance in late life for both men and women.

Ruth Jones is the health commissioner for the City of Quincy.

AMAC: Seniors Most At Risk For Illness, Death During Heat Waves

Some may like it hot, but the Association of Mature American Citizens [AMAC] warns that older Americans are at risk when summertime temperatures rise. AMAC president Dan Weber says that heat waves, the kind that have engulfed the nation recently, can cause illness and death among seniors.

According to the Centers for Disease Control [CDC] on average there are more than 650 heat related deaths in the U.S. each year and many more suffer heat related illness during heat waves. Between the years of 1999 and 2010 a total of 8,081 deaths were recorded, 36% of them or 2,901 of them, were over 65 years of age.

"The elderly living in cities are most vulnerable when temperatures soar. Cities are known as 'urban heat islands' among weather forecasters because the streets, sidewalks and the concrete used in the construction of high rise buildings absorb the heat," Weber explains. "For example, 1995 was a banner year for heat waves and some 1,000 people died across the country. Nearly three-quarters of those fatalities occurred in the big city of Chicago."

Cramps, nausea, dizziness and other similar complaints during hot weather may be signs that the heat is getting the best of you and that you need to get help if these symptoms persist for more than half an hour.

"Better yet take precautions to avoid becoming a victim. Cold drinks, water and juices, are recommended. Don't drink coffee or tea because the caffeine is dehydrating. Alcoholic beverages are also dehydrating and, thus, should be avoided on hot days. Stay in the shade if you are out of doors and wear a hat and light clothing," Weber suggests.

He says that if you have elderly relatives or friends, check up on them from time to time. It's important to know that if humidity accompanies the high temperatures it can prevent sweat from evaporating, which reduces the body's ability to cool itself. In addition, the heat can cause confusion that may keep them from taking obvious steps in hot weather such as turning on the air conditioner.

"Do not use electric fans when the temperature outside is more than 95 degrees. You could increase the risk of heat-related illness. Fans create air flow and a false sense of comfort, but do not reduce body temperature," according to FEMA.

Weber points out that most communities across the country make provisions for seniors in hot weather by establishing neighborhood "cooling centers" in summer, places where they can get relief if they don't have air conditioning. These centers also provide appropriate drinks to keep them hydrated.

Keenan Files MS Bill

By SCOTT JACKSON

A bill introduced by Sen. John Keenan would prohibit insurance companies from forcing patients with multiple sclerosis to switch medications.

Keenan filed the bill, titled "An Act Promoting Continuity of Care for Multiple Sclerosis Treatment," at the start of the legislative term in January. It was referred to the Joint Committee on Financial Services.

Keenan, a Quincy Democrat, testified in support of the bill during a July committee hearing.

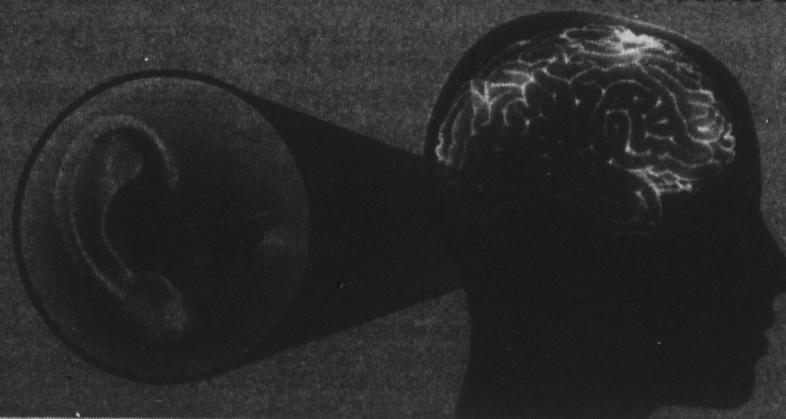

In a recent interview, Keenan said individuals with multiple sclerosis sometimes struggle when insurance companies force them to switch from a medicine that had been working to a different one that might not work as well for them.

"It's fairly common that people who have MS search, when they are first diagnosed, for a medica-

Carolyn Marks: A Woman On A Mission

By VALERIE WHITE

The Union Congregational Church, Rawson Road, Wollaston, was founded in 1895.

Carolyn Marks, Trustees Building Manager, leads and instructs a small staff of three in maintaining the 125 year old structure. Two are neighborhood women, Karen McDonald and Jean Weiss, who had little experience in handling drills, painting, caulking, sanding, ceiling tile repair, stripping floors, and other ongoing projects. Mark Goodwin, who is the church Sexton, completes the team. Another member who occasionally visits the Church is named Noah, Carolyn's much-adored Sheltie.

A member of the crew may be found perched on the top of a board which is balanced across the backs of two chairs, teetering over a flight of stairs, reaching into the air with a broom handle, trying to pop ceiling tiles back into place.

Jean and Karen describe Carolyn as "awesome." They are learning from her and she is very proud of them as they acquire new skills.

Carolyn admits to not being familiar with the repair or maintenance of a boiler when she assumed the title of Building Manager at the Church. Experience is a great teacher when there is no one else to do the job; she learned the language and techniques necessary-heat exchanger, flue, ducts, nipples, ignition devices, pressure valves, and gauges. In the cold months, she has- tens into the basement after the end of the monthly Spaghetti Dinner, which is held the second Saturday of each month, to adjust the temperature of the boiler for the evening.

CAROLYN MARKS

Trustees Building Manager, Union Congregational Church

Another recent project spearheaded by Carolyn consisted of clearing the front lawn of weeds and stones. Carolyn demonstrated to her crew how to handle a power driven roto-tiller by pushing it around the church yard. The plan now is to design a small garden patch, perhaps planted and maintained by the children who attend day care at Union Congregational.

She describes her dedicated service to Union Congregational Church as an expression of her deep faith. She firmly believes "things just get better in my life" because of her hands-on contributions.

Carolyn's father willed her his collection of tools due to her interest and skill in woodworking. Using these, she has crafted collections of wooden tools as gifts for her numerous nieces and nephews. She also designs and constructs imaginative pieces of lovely furniture.

In addition to handy-woman skills and carpentry, she also paints in acrylics, embroiders, and pursues other creative pastimes, all focused on the cooperation of hands and brain.

The church keeps Carolyn busy, but not so busy that she doesn't engage in other notable activities, including, but not limited to:

- lived for 7 years out of state as a mission member helping to build homes with hands on participation
- volunteers at MA Archives in the area of genealogy

- has written and self published a history of her family roots

- is an honorary active member and past Manager of Squantum Yacht Club

- maintains membership in the Souther Tide Mill, Inc. An ongoing goal is to preserve the Tide Mill property and have it designated a national historic site

- enjoys a few rounds of golf in the summer.

- roller skates, in Whitman, with a club.

If asked what drives her, Carolyn states with a laugh, "It's not always easy being a Leo."

Carolyn will celebrate her 86th birthday in August, making her achievements even more remarkable.

Social Security Matters

Ask Rusty – About Collecting Spouse Benefits Or Disability

Dear Rusty: My wife will be 62 in a few months and I'm still working (I am 59). Can my wife get any Social Security if I'm not yet retired? She's short quarters for her own Social Security from when she worked. She also worked under our State Teachers Retirement System as a substitute teacher, but she is short of getting any STRS benefits. She's a diabetic and has other health problems, so can she qualify for disability? Signed: Inquiring Husband

Dear Inquiring Husband: Your wife cannot collect Social Security spousal benefits from your record until you are collecting your own Social Security. To be eligible for Social Security on her own work record she needs to have at least 40 "quarters" of work credits - about 10 years of substantial earnings over her lifetime during which she and her employer both contributed to Social Security. Her employment with STRS didn't give her Social Security credits since her State employer doesn't participate in the Social Security program; however, if she doesn't have a STRS pension then neither does she need to worry about that pension affecting her eventual Social Security spousal benefits when she can collect from you (if she had a pension from STRS her Social Security spousal benefit would be reduced).

As far as the possibility of your wife getting Social Security Disability Insurance (SSDI) benefits, SSDI benefits can only be awarded based upon one's own work record. Whether your wife qualifies would depend upon how many Social Security quarter credits she has and when they were earned. Your wife would need to have worked in Social Security covered employment for at least 5 of the last 10 years to be eligible for SSDI benefits, and her current health condition would need to render her totally disabled and unable to work (and that must be medically confirmed) in order to qualify.

If she hasn't already done so, I suggest your wife obtain a Statement of Estimated Benefits and Earnings Statement from Social Security. She can do this online by setting up her own personal "My Social Security" account at www.ssa.gov or by requesting same from Social Security via phone. You can find your local Social Security office contact information by going to this link: www.ssa.gov/locator. Once you have obtained this information you will be able to determine exactly how many Social Security "quarter credits" your wife actually has to this point and the employment years for which she earned them (for SSDI purposes), and also if she is entitled to any Social Security benefits on her own from credits earned over her lifetime (SS credits don't expire). Having all that information should help your wife fully understand if she has any claiming options other than waiting until you start collecting your own Social Security retirement benefit, at which point she can claim her spousal benefit.

tion that best addresses the symptoms of MS and maybe has an impact on the progress of MS," he said. "Once the best medication is determined and a person has been using it, sometimes insurance companies will come in and say, 'we want you to try something different,' and they will provide coverage for the something different and not for the medication that the person may be using.

"They try to get individuals to switch off of a proven medication to something that it is not known whether it will help this particular individual, and, in that process, individuals struggle enormously. They find that their regimen is interrupted - their day-to-day activities are interrupted - as a result of the medication switch. They find that the medication is not appropriate and that, in some cases, the disease has progressed in the meantime."

Keenan's bill would stop the patient's current insurance company from making them switch to a new medication. That protection would carry forward if a patient switched insurers.

"Our bill would basically not permit insurance companies to force people to change their medications," Keenan said. "If somebody finds a medication that is working, they should be allowed to stay on that medication."

cation with their current insurer and if they switch insurance companies, the right to that medication should go with them and the new insurance company should be required to cover it as well."

Keenan said insurance companies sometimes make individuals change medications for other diseases, but the impact is particularly severe for those taking medication for multiple sclerosis.

"It is an issue with some other diseases as well, but MS is one where it has a particularly strong negative impact when you switch somebody on medications," he said.

Houghs Neck Maritime Center Demo This Fall

ter the annual Houghs Neck ChowdaFest in September.

"We're going to wait until after the ChowdaFest on Sept. 14 and then we are going to take the building down and we're going to go right forward to put the ramp in," he said in a recent interview. "That gives us probably two good months of weather...to get the ramp in before it gets cold."

The city had planned to raze the building before September, McCarthy said, but decided to wait until after the bulk of this year's boating season is over.

"We were going to try and do it right now. We're going to try and take the maritime center down, get that all cleaned up, wait for the boating season to be over and then put the ramp in," McCarthy said. "We're just delaying the demolition because we don't want to have a mess down there in the boating season."

The goal is to have the ramp ready to go at the start of next year's boating season, at which point plans for the maritime center building itself should start to come into focus.

"We were either going to try it real quick now and now we've decided real quick isn't going to work, we might as well wait, do it nice and clean and have it set up so hopefully we have a new boat ramp at least going into the spring of next year," McCarthy said.

"Hopefully, by that time...we will have more funding and more of a positive idea on the timeline for the building."

The city has received a $680,000 grant from the Massachusetts Seaport Economic Council and $170,000 from Quincy's Community Preservation Committee for the new ramp. The new ramp will be 28 feet wide - wide enough to accommodate two boats side by side. It will also be installed at a sharper angle than the current ramp, allowing boaters to use it out-side of high tide.

"The ramp now, it goes down but then it flattens out on you. If you're not at a full tide, you're almost flat," McCarthy said. "This will have much more of a pitch so that boat launches can go easier."

The city received a $1 million grant from the Seaport Economic Council in February 2018 for the design and construction of the new maritime center. The building would be named in honor of lifelong Houghs Neck resident Francis X. McCauley, a former mayor, city councillor and school board member.

Conceptual plans for the new building were unveiled in August 2017. The plan at that time included a three-story facility with storage space, an office and kitchen, and a community room on the first floor along with exhibition space highlighting Houghs Neck's history; a larger meeting room on the second floor; and office space for the Quincy Police Department's Marine Unit on the top floor. The plan also included outdoor decks on each floor facing seaward to Hingham Bay with an observation tower looking landward toward Houghs Neck with Quincy Bay in the distance.

Wessling Architects is working on the revised plans for the maritime center and parking lot. McCarthy said the latest revisions to proposal could be presented to the community later this year during a series of neighborhood meetings.

"We have to come to an agreement on the design and I know when you have these community meetings there is always input that comes out you didn't think of," he said. "If we have three or four community meetings, somebody will say something that...makes sense. You want to be able to get this this right."

McCarthy said the new design would call for a smaller building. It would include storage space in a basement area, a community room on the ground floor, and office space for the Marine Unit on the second floor along with an additional meeting room.

"The square footage will come down a little bit, but it will be big enough to have meetings," he said. "It won't be big enough to have big functions, but it will be a nice building."

The observation tower included in the 2017 conceptual plan - which was meant to resemble a former observation post on Great Hill - will remain in the new plan but will instead face seaward.

"We want to keep the tower...but that is going to face the water," McCarthy said. "I'm switching it around because I figure people would like to look out to sea."

The City Council in June 2018 approved purchasing two homes in the vicinity of the maritime center parking lot using money that was set aside in a $27 million park improvement bond, which will be paid back using hotel tax receipts. McCarthy said the city continues to negotiate with the owner of the third home in vicinity of the parking lot. The final design will hinge on whether the city can acquire that house.

"We are still up in the air with the third home. We're going to try to address that again," McCarthy said. "I don't know if that ship has sailed...but we are going to look at that."

The 2017 conceptual plan for the parking lot included spaces long enough to accommodate vehicles with boat trailers attached. McCarthy instead wants the lot designed for cars to park in without boat trailers; trailer parking would be provided in a lot next to nearby Brill Field on Fensmere Street. There are approximately 25 to 30 spaces there now, and McCarthy said those spaces could be doubled to make them long enough for trailers.

"[It] doesn't take anything away from the field," he said. "It doesn't take anything away from any softball or soccer or whatever and probably cleans it up down there where they can store their trailers down on public space and be able to get them whenever they want."

because of its age. Martin Aikens, the chairman of the zoning board, said those issues could be addressed during the permitting process.

In addition, Connors said the new house would block the view of the ocean from the Callanan home; Payne's property has the ocean on one side with the Callanan house on the other.

"When this house goes up, they are moving this whole thing to the south, which is going to block my clients' complete view of the ocean," Connors said.

Aikens said that would not be a reason to stop Payne from building the house.

"If you want a view, buy the view, because you never get a permanent view when there is a house in front of you or a house beside you," he said. "That's not a reason not to build a house, because someone is going to change their view. Those people spent money for this property - they have a right to do with their property what they would like to do with it."

Paul Sluk, who lives on Sunrise Road, said he was likewise concerned about the view from his home. Sluk's home once had a sizeable ocean view, he said, but it has since been reduced over the years.

"I would be remiss if I didn't speak today and let you know my view has gone from...a very sizeable view to a fraction of the view," Sluk said.

Mary Laflamme, a Huckins Avenue resident, said houses in the city have gotten larger over the years, negatively impacting the quality of life.

"After World War II, they had all these nice, small houses. They're being torn down and getting taller and wider," she said. "I think it's destroying Quincy."

After hearing from nearby residents, Aikens asked his colleagues to hold off on a vote until the Aug. 13 meeting to give the applicant time to rethink plans for the site so it would have less of an impact on neighbors' ocean views.

"Let them meet with the neighbors one more time and see if there is anything they can do and come up with something. If they can't, they can't, then we'll make our decision. I just think someone needs to sit in the middle and mediate this for one more round," Aikens said. "I feel for them because I've been there."

Ward 6 Councillor William Harris thanked the board for granting the continuance until Aug. 13 to allow both sides to come together again.

In other business on July 23, the board:

Continued until Aug. 27 Michael Grehan's request for a variance and special permit to construct five townhouses at 12 Miller St.

Continued until Aug. 27 Bartholomew O'Shea's request for a special permit and variance to build a three-unit residential building at 10 Curlew Rd.

Approved Michael Liu's request for a variance to build an additional single-family home at 72 Main St.

Approved Michael and Patricia Haines' request for a variance to build a deck on the back of their house at 102 Piermont St.

Approved Yin Xing Huang's request for a variance to add a second story to his house at 156 Wilson Ave.

Approved Elizabeth Wong's request for a variance to add an addition onto her house at 17 Willow Ave. to accommodate her father. As a condition of the approval, the addition can only be one-story tall.

Register O'Donnell Answers The Question - Where Is My Deed?

When interacting with the public, Register of Deeds William O'Donnell and the staff of the Norfolk County Registry of Deeds are asked many questions relative to land documents. One of the most common questions asked is where is my deed?

"When a property transaction in Norfolk County takes place, a new deed is recorded here at the Registry of Deeds," O'Donnell said. "This deed is a legal land document affirming that a piece of property has been transferred from the seller (grantor) to the buyer (grantee). The filing fee for recording a deed, set by state statute, is $126."

After a deed is recorded, Registry of Deeds personnel enter and scan the document into the Registry's computer system. The deed is then available for viewing via the Registry's website www.norfolkdeeds.org.

In addition to viewing the deed, anyone can print a non-certified copy of the deed, free of charge, from the website. A certified copy of the deed will cost $1 per page plus an additional $1 per document for postage if the request is made by regular mail. Further information about obtaining a copy of a certified deed can be had by calling the Registry's Customer Service Center, Monday through Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. at 781-461-6101.

O'Donnell pointed out that while the recording, online storing, viewing and printing a copy of a deed is pretty straight forward, there are some private companies that take advantage of a property owner's desire for a copy of their deed.

"Norfolk County residents," O'Donnell said, "are receiving solicitations from private companies stating they can obtain a copy of their deed for an outrageous fee of $86. Under no circumstances should someone fall for this deed scam. As stated above, viewing of all land documents, including deeds, recorded in Norfolk County are available online via www.norfolkdeeds.org.

A non-certified copy of a deed can be printed for free while a certified copy can be obtained for a nominal fee. If someone gets one of these deed scam solicitations, throw it away or if you have a question, contact our Customer Service Center at the 781-461-6101 number."

In conclusion, Register O'Donnell said:

"For most individuals, a home is the most important economic possession they have. They want to make sure their deed is recorded accurately and is easily accessible if needed. In Norfolk County, we achieve

Ayers Sponsors Kentucky Youth Clean Up Of Squantum Park

Group Also Tours Adams National Historical Park, Church Of The Presidents

State Rep. Bruce Ayers recently sponsored a clean-up of Squantum Point Park in Marina Bay, bringing in a group of high school students from Kentucky to lend a helping hand.

Ayers is the legislative sponsor of the Massachusetts Youth & Government program, a nonpartisan initiative that brings hundreds of students from around the state into the State House each year for a model government conference. When Kentucky's Youth & Government program contacted Ayers' office and said they had a group of students traveling up the northeast as part of a week-long service program, he jumped at the chance to bring them to Quincy.

"These kids were so excited to be in Quincy, and were energized about helping to clean the park," Ayers said. "It's great to see their commitment to service in action."

Twenty-three high school students and 5 adult chaperones from Kentucky participated in the 8-day trip up the East Coast, riding in a yellow school bus. Each student fundraised between $500 and $1,500 to pay their own way on the trip, and completed over 50 hours of local community service to qualify for a spot.

Along with Quincy, they made stops in Springfield in Massachusetts, Cleveland and Columbus in Ohio, New Haven in Connecticut, and Syracuse, Albany, Buffalo, and Niagara in New York.

This is the second time in the last three years that the group has visited Quincy. Before they cleaned the park, Ayers and his office set the students up with VIP tours of the Adams National Historical Park and United First Parish Church, the "Church of the Presidents" in Quincy Center, where they visited the crypt of Presidents John and John Quincy Adams. They even had the chance to hear from Jim Cooke, the church's volunteer John Quincy Adams impersonator, along with Bob Damon, the Director of the History & Visitors program.

"These kids love history, and seeing their faces when they come across a historic place they've never seen before is priceless," said Sean Costello, who works as Ayers' legislative director. "We spent a lot of the day talking about the legacy of John and John Quincy Adams, and the role Quincy played in the birth of service to America. They really took it to heart."

After touring the Adams National Historical Park, the kids were sworn in as "Junior Park Rangers" by Kelly Cobble, the park's curator. They also had lunch from Craig's Café, which was donated by Discover Quincy, and met with representatives from Mayor Tom Koch's office.

Once they got to Squantum Point Park, they spent the afternoon getting their hands dirty. "They pulled weeds, they spread mulch, they trimmed branches, they picked up trash, and did a whole lot of things over the course of a few hours to beautify the park," Ayers said. "It's unbelievable how good it looks after their help."

The Department of Conservation & Recreation, which oversees Squantum Point Park, provided the equipment and supervision.

While the students see many different places on their trip, it was clear that Quincy was the highlight. "The people here treat us so well, and getting to see what makes Quincy special is an unforgettable experience," Muckler said. "We can't thank Representative Ayers enough for making this day happen for us, and for helping our kids learn the importance of commu-

The threat of thunderstorms couldn't stop the Shine Under the Stars Gala, held on the rooftop terrace at Alba Restaurant on June 30th. The event was a fundraiser for This Star Won't Go Out (TSWGO), a Quincy-based nonprofit committed to helping families facing the financial stress of caring for a child diagnosed with cancer.

Boston 25's Chief Meteorologist, Kevin Lemanowicz was the evening's emcee, and he worked his magic by keeping the skies clear and nearly rain-free. Kevin was heard explaining that the fifteen-minute rain part way through the evening was merely to clean off the tables, before the festivities continued!

A raw bar and delicious buffet were part of the generous sponsorship by Leo Keka of Alba Restaurant. Guests enjoyed Alba's chocolate truffle cake, and pastries donated by Konditor Meister. Some wandered by the Wine Pull table, or past more than 50 raffle and auction items--with the chance to win everything from a wine class, chocolates from Purefection, an overnight at Foxwoods, a free class at Quincy College, a gift basket from Quincy Credit Union, to a signed Celtics jersey and a spectacular lobster basket worth over $500.

Friends seated on the covered patio enjoyed drinks to the accompaniment of music from local DJ Edison Mathieu. A short program included a welcome by our emcee, heartfelt comments by TSWGO's Executive Director, Lori Earl, as she shared about her daughter Esther, and a word from TSWGO's Chairman of the Board, Ted Waterman.

Sponsorship for the event came from Granite Telecommunications, Daniel Hoffman, FastSigns of Quincy, Robert Hamel, Briggs Corner Store, and Meineke Car Care of Quincy. Along with these sponsors were the local companies and friends who gave generous gifts towards the raffle and silent auction.

Together with ticket sales, the event raised over $20,000 to help TSWGO provide cost-of-living resources for kids with cancer. Learn more at TSWGO.org.

Ayers says the day is a highlight for his office as well, and that he hopes to bring the group back to Quincy in the coming years to continue the partnership between Massachusetts and Kentucky.

"Quincy is home to a lot of history that helped shape the United States of America," Ayers said. "I'm glad we could help bring some of that history alive for these students, while also doing something that benefits Squantum Point Park, the environment, and the members of our community who utilize it."

Morrisette Wins District 6 Baseball Championship

By TOM JOYCE

It took two tries, but the Quincy Post 294 Senior Legion baseball team is this season's District 6 champion.

Quincy took the title at Adams Field July 24 in what would end up being a doubleheader against Franklin. Since Quincy had not lost in the district's playoff bracket, they only needed to win one of two games against Franklin Post 75. Ultimately, they won the second game 5-1 and earned a spot in the 2019 Massachusetts Senior Legion state tournament.

"This core of older guys, the 19-year-old kids I have on this team, some of them have played for me for around four-five years," Quincy head coach Steve Maze said. "They're a great group of kids and they deserve what they've earned. They've earned a shot at playing in the state tournament. They really deserve it."

With the win, Quincy improved to 18-5 on the season.

Owen Carberry pitched a gem for Quincy in game two. He tossed 6.2 innings and allowed just one run on six hits while striking out seven batters. Devin Desmond then came in with runners on second and third and recorded the final out of the game for Quincy.

Offensively, Quincy got all of the production it needed in the second inning of the contest, picking up three runs.

Although Matt Joyce smacked a leadoff double to start the game for Quincy, this would not result in any runs. An inning later, John Joyce got things started with a leadoff single. Of the next three batters, two reached base, taking advantage of a walk and an error. This loaded the bases for Matt Joyce, whose RBI single tied the game at one apiece. After him, Martin McCormack also singled in a run. During the next at-bat, a passed ball scored Matt Joyce, making it 3-1 in Quincy's favor.

Another Franklin miscue allowed Quincy to pad their lead in the third. John Joyce singled to lead off the inning and with one out, Stephen Parsons had a bunt single to put a runner on first and second. Franklin then unsuccessfully attempted to pick off Parsons and Joyce managed to score on the wild throw.

With two outs, Matt Joyce was hit by a pitch, putting runners on first and third for Quincy. The team then successfully executed a double steal with Parsons scoring as Franklin's catcher attempted to throw Joyce out at second base. This put Quincy up 5-1.

Neither side added any more runs for the rest of the game thanks to sharp relief pitching from Franklin and Carberry's stellar performance for Quincy.

In game one of the doubleheader, however, Quincy was not as lucky. They fell 6-3 to Franklin which forced the game two about 30 minutes after the conclusion of the first one.

Reflecting on the first game, Maze said, "Franklin threw a very good pitcher. They did a very good job in a tough, close game. The thing is, I didn't feel like we were out of it at any point. I didn't feel like they were that superior of a team to us."

At the plate, Franklin had success in the fourth inning, chasing Quincy's starter out of the game and scoring four runs in the process. Franklin would add two more runs in the sixth inning to go up 6-3.

Early on in, Quincy enjoyed some success offensively. Curtis Frazier whacked an RBI double in the third inning. Frazier would eventually score on a pop fly hit by Will McCarthy that Franklin's right fielder dropped.

In the bottom of the fourth, Matt Joyce added a run for Quincy, knocking in an RBI double to make it a 4-3 ballgame.

Ultimately, Quincy was unable to regain the lead, although their best chance came in the sixth inning. They loaded the bases with one out, but then grounded into a double play to end the inning without any additional runs.

With the win in game two, Quincy advanced to play Milford this past weekend in the state tournament.

Morrisette dropped two close games in the state competition, bowing to 2-1 to Milford and Somerset, 10-7, ending the team's season.

Morrisette Legion Plays Competitive Ball In State Tournament

By TOM JOYCE

For the second year in a row, the Morrisette Post 294 Senior Legion team was among the best teams in the state.

This season, Quincy not only captured the District 6 title, but they made it to the Massachusetts State Legion Baseball Tournament for the second straight season. They were one of only eight teams to make it that far. On July 27, they dropped a tight 2-1 game to Milford Post 59 on the road. The following day, they hosted Somerset Post 181 and fell 10-7 and were eliminated from the tournament. Quincy finished the season at 18-7.

"It was a great year," Quincy head coach Steve Maze said. "The kids should be proud that they've finally made it to the state tournament two years in a row. There's 137 teams and we were in the top eight. The kids should be really proud of how far they made it. We're not satisfied, but very proud."

"We had a very experienced team and that was huge for us," he said. "We had kids who had played varsity baseball for three or four years and Legion ball for upwards of five years. There wasn't any situation they hadn't seen and it was a big attribute."

In Quincy's first game of the statewide tournament, it was a walk off base hit which made the difference in the contest. Headed into the bottom of the seventh inning, Morrisette held a 1-0 lead, however, Milford led off the inning with a walk. Still, the game appeared as though it would go in Quincy's favor as they recorded two straight outs, although Milford's runner picked up a base on each of them. With two outs and a runner on third, Milford hit a game-tying single and the next batter knocked that runner in on another single.

Against Milford, Quincy had some early success at the plate in the top of the second inning. John Joyce had a leadoff walk and proceeded to steal second base during the second at-bat of the inning. Matt Tomlinson then singled, pushing Joyce over to third base. With two outs in the inning, they successfully conducted a double steal where Tomlinson took off for second, Milford's catcher attempted to throw him out and Joyce sprinted to home plate and scored the first run of the contest.

After that, Quincy had no luck at the plate despite stranding runners on second and third in the top of the sixth inning.

Although they fell in a high scoring contest in game two, Quincy also took the lead to start off that one. Matt Joyce led off the game with a triple and Matt Mc-Cormack knocked him in on a groundout. An inning later, John Joyce singled, stole second base and advanced to third base on a Tomlinson single. Once again, he added a run for his team on a double steal.

In the top of the fourth Somerset took a 4-2 lead after loading the bases to start the inning. Initially, Quincy walked in a run and then an overthrow on a play allowed two Somerset runners to score. Somerset also had an RBI single in the inning to go up 4-2.

John Joyce's RBI single in the fourth brought Quincy within a run, but an RBI single from Somerset made it a 5-3 game. An inning later, a McCormack double made it 5-4, knocking in Matt Joyce.

North Quincy Big Y Store Closing Aug. 28

By SCOTT JACKSON

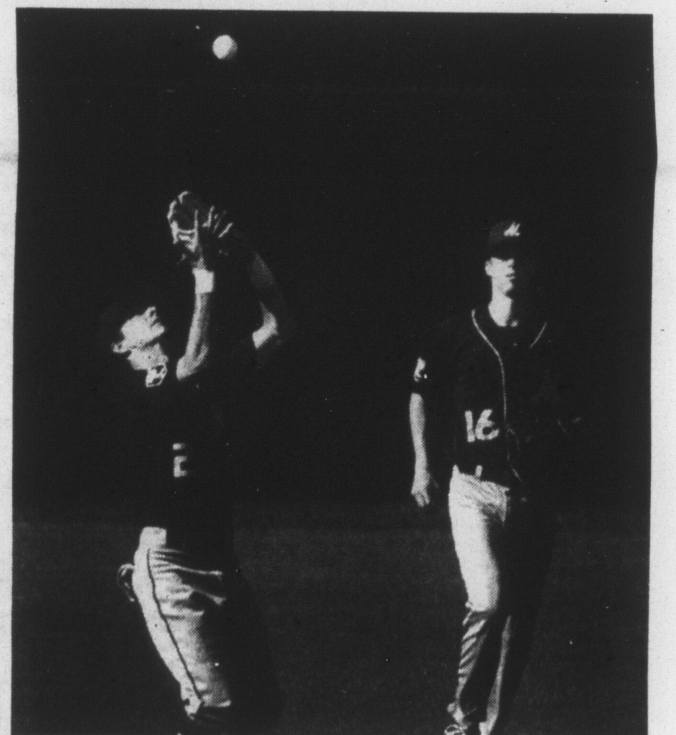

The Big Y store in North Quincy will close its doors for good on Aug. 28 after the company was unable to negotiate a lease extension.

A spokeswoman for the Springfield-based chain of supermarkets said it would be closing its location at 475 Hancock St. because it was unable to negotiate a lease extension with the owner of the property. The company is looking at other possible locations in Quincy and nearby communities.

However, Somerset rallied for five runs in the sixth inning which included a stretch of three straight RBI singles.

Quincy rallied in the bottom of the seventh with three runs of their own. Curtis Frazier knocked one in, reaching on an error. Patrick Roche then hit an RBI single, but got thrown out at second base. With one out in the inning, Mike Fonte also singled in a run. However, Somerset retired the last two batters to take home the win.

Morrisette featured not only players from the city's two public high schools, but those who reside in Quincy and attended local private schools. Even so, they all managed to come together and play as one team.

Cornhole Tournament Saturday At Safford Park

This past Saturday, the Wollaston Hill Neighborhood Association (WHNA) hosted the fifth week of Saturdays in the Park, a summer series featuring a craft beer garden, food, live music, family fun, and wellness. This event series runs each Saturday, from noon to 6 p.m. through Aug. 3rd.

This coming Saturday's line-up features: Katie Kickbutt, owner and fitness expert from Commit 2B Fit Studio, demoing 2 fun fitness classes, music by classic-rock cover band, The Fall, the Tapped Truck Craft Beer Garden, the Pearl Hot Dog Stand, the Quincy BBQ Guys, and ice cream from Ellie's Treats.

This Saturday is also the final weekend of the event series and will feature a city-wide Cornhole tournament. Teams from neighborhoods across Quincy will compete for the first-ever Quincy Neighborhood Cornhole Championship. The winning team receives both a trophy and bragging rights.

All activities will take place between noon and 6 p.m. at Safford Park, located at 166 Beale St., Quincy.

Visit WHNA's website for each week's schedule at www.wollastonhill.com. The WHNA recommends public transportation; MBTA 211 bus stops at Safford Park.

City To Receive $50.4M In Funding From State Budget

The Massachusetts Legislature last week passed a balanced $43.1 billion budget for Fiscal Year 2020, with major investments in education, affordable housing and homelessness prevention, mental health and substance use disorder programs, and health care.

The agreement reached between the House and Senate includes significant increases in funding over the previous year, including an increase of $269 million to Chapter 70 education funding, an additional $29.6 million for unrestricted local aid to cities and towns, a combined $249.4 million for housing and homelessness prevention programs — including the Massachusetts Rental Voucher Program, Public Housing Subsidies, Alternative Housing Voucher Program, and Homeless individual shelters — and $150.2 million for the Bureau of Substance Addiction Services, which will help create five new recovery centers across the state.

The City of Quincy is set to receive $50.4 million in direct funding from the state, about 15.3 percent of the city's overall $329 million budget; this includes $28.6 million in Chapter 70 education funding and $20.27 million in unrestricted general assistance from the state.

"The House and Senate have come together to pass a responsible and fiscally sound annual budget that addresses many important shared priorities," said Majority Leader Ron Mariano. "My colleagues in the Quincy delegation should be proud of the work we have accomplished and the increased investments made in local aid, education funding and housing and homelessness prevention. We also made a significant deposit into the rainy day fund which will help us prepare for the inevitable next economic downturn."

"Several local programs in Quincy received direct funding to help carry out their mission, including an additional $75,000 allocated towards the ongoing renovations at the Fore River Clubhouse in Ward 2," Mariano said.

"We're very proud in this year's budget to have ensured once again that important state resources come to the City of Quincy, while balancing a fiscally responsible budget and adding to our state stabilization fund in case of a 'rainy day,'" said state Rep. Tackey Chan. "We have funded local aid and Chapter 70 at record numbers while seeing that our human service agencies, public safety programs, and health care providers continue to succeed. Along with the other members of the Quincy delegation, I'm proud to be able to continue our support of the many local organizations that depend on state funding and make up the vibrant Quincy community that we live in."

In addition to major investments in programs, services, and infrastructure improvements across the state, the FY20 budget includes a projected $476 million deposit to the state's Stabilization Fund, or "rainy day" fund, in order to ensure the stability of state programs during future economic slowdowns; with the increase, this brings the balance to more than $3 billion. With increased revenue projections, an additional $23 million will be directed to the MBTA, in addition to $127 million in base funding.

"By focusing on local aid, public education, health care, workforce development and housing, we are giving our local cities and towns the tools they need to foster healthy, vibrant, and safe communities," said state Sen. John Keenan. "I'm proud to have worked with my colleagues from the Quincy delegation to deliver resources that will help fund public safety improvements, housing initiatives, community health programs and other essential local services."

"I'm proud to have worked with my colleagues in the Quincy delegation to secure a budget that provides necessary funding to the city of Quincy," said state Rep. Bruce Ayers. "We advocated for and received strong numbers in education and local aid assistance, while also securing important funds for organizations and projects that help move Quincy forward. I'm particularly pleased with the monies we secured to help Manet Community Health Center plan for providing urgent care services, as well as the funding for improvements to the pier structure at Squantum Point Park. This is a huge help as we continue to advocate for an alternative means of transportation for Quincy and South Shore residents, with the ultimate goal of bringing a full-time dedicated ferry to Squantum Point Park."

The FY20 budget includes numerous investments in local programs in Quincy, advocated for by Quincy's legislative delegation which includes House Majority Leader Ron Mariano, Sen. John Keenan, Rep. Tackey Chan, Rep. Bruce Ayers, and Rep. Dan Hunt. A sum of $150,000 is allocated for Quincy Asian Resources, Inc., to continue to support the agency's programs focused on workforce development, ESOL education, youth engagement, and other critical services for Quincy's immigrant communities. In addition, $50,000 was allocated to Germantown Neighborhood Center, which provides important after-school and community services to youth and low-income residents. Manet Community Health Center is set to receive $100,000 to begin development of a new urgent care facility at the North Quincy Health Center.

Pursuant to the Metropolitan Beaches Commission's recommendations, of which Quincy is a participant, $900,000 is committed to seasonal support and regular infrastructure improvements for beaches in the Greater Boston metropolitan area. $75,000 is dedicated to interior improvements at Fore River Clubhouse. The Quincy delegation also successfully advocated for $100,000 for pier improvements at Squantum Point Park, as part of ongoing upgrades to make ferry service more accessible.

The delegation also secured funding for a number of important local public safety programs. Quincy Fire Department's Hazmat Program received $50,000 and Quincy Housing Authority received $75,000 to complete the second phase of security upgrades in senior housing facilities. An additional $50,000 has been allocated to study the feasibility of upgrading the fire suppression system at United First Parish Church, the resting place of U.S. presidents John Adams and John Quincy Adams.

As a whole, the FY20 budget continues the state's commitment to ensuring children have access to high-quality early education and care, by increasing rates for early education providers by $20 million and supporting continuing education opportunities at community colleges. Housing and homelessness funding also saw major increases, with $116 million for the Massachusetts Rental Voucher Program; $72 million for Public Housing Subsidies, $8 million for Alternative Housing Voucher Program; and $53.4 million for Homeless individual shelters.

Following on increases last year, the Legislature once again prioritized mental health and substance abuse treatment and mitigation, funding the Bureau of Substance Addiction Services at $150.2 million which will help create five new recovery centers across Massachusetts. Also included is a $50 million increase in the supplemental rates for nursing homes across the Commonwealth, as well as an emergency task force aimed at helping to bring stability to the industry. In addition, $125,000 has been allocated to assist with preparations for the National Guard's 2020 national conference, which will be held in Massachusetts next year for the first time since 1994.

With the upcoming 2020 U.S. Census, the final budget also included significant investments in local outreach efforts, with $2.75 million allocated to the Secretary of the Commonwealth for technical assistance and an additional $2.5 million funding the Complete Count Grant Program. Complete Count will support outreach efforts in cities and towns across Massachusetts, particularly among minority and immigrant communities that are at risk of being undercounted, to ensure an accurate count of all residents in the 2020 Census.

The final Fiscal Year 2020 budget now goes to Gov. Baker to be signed into law.

Quincy Homestead Open, Stone Cutting Demonstration Saturday

The 1686 Quincy Homestead, 34 Butler Rd., Quincy, will be open for tours Saturday, Aug. 3 from 11 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. (last tour begins at 2 p.m.)

Besides tours there will be a special event Saturday that will highlight granite cutting in the early days.

Alfred Bina, president of the Quincy Quarry and Granite Workers Museum, will provide a stone cutting demonstration at the Dorothy Quincy Homestead.

In 1825, after searching throughout New England for the stone to build Bunker Hill Monument in Charlestown, Solomon Willard, who was a carver and builder in Massachusetts and who is remembered primarily for designing and overseeing the Bunker Hill Monument, selected West Quincy as the source of stone. The Bunker Hill Monument was the first "monumental obelisk erected in the United States. Because he developed the revolutionary construction techniques that made Quincy granite a practical stone for building, Willard became known as "The Father of the Granite Industry." The Quincy granite was known for its extreme hardness, dark color and its ability to take on a high polish.

Once the stone source was established, the challenge was how to move the stone from the quarries. In 1826, the solution came with the construction of the Granite Railway. Gridley Bryant, who was a pioneer in the American railroad industry, engineered the railway's design and construction. Construction began on the Granite Railway, one of the first railroads in North America, on April 1, 1826, and the first train operated on the railroad on Oct. 7, 1826. Bryant had to create the designs for nearly every aspect of the railroad, including the cars, track, switches, wheels, turntable, and load transfer equipment. Bryant used horses and gravity to pull his trains and many of his inventions are still in use today. The Granite Railway was a National Historic Civil Engineering Landmark.

Quincy became known as "The Granite City." The Quincy granite was used in the construction of some of the most impressive granite buildings, monuments, sculptures and fortifications across the United States, including the custom houses in Boston, Savannah, New Orleans and San Francisco.

In 1985 the Commonwealth of Massachusetts purchased 22 acres that included the Granite Railway Quarry. The Quincy Quarries Historic Site now preserves a rich industrial landscape while providing a unique open space for recreation and discovery.

Besides this Saturday, historic home tours will be held Aug. 17th, Sept. 7th and Sept. 21st. Tours take about 45 minutes. There is no admission charge for the tours, but as a Non-Profit 501 (c) (3) organization, donations are always welcome.

Private tours may be requested by calling 617-742-3190 or by emailing dames@nscdama.org. For more information visit www.nscdama.org.

Since 1904, the Homestead has been owned by the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, and is operated by the Department of Conservation and Recreation (DCR) in cooperation with the NSCDA-MA (Colonial Dames of MA).

Salome's Stars

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Dealing with a difficult person can be the kind of challenge you Aries Lambs love. Or it could be an energy-draining exercise in futility. Be certain your goals are worth your efforts.
TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) The Divine Bovine might be seeing red at having your crisis-resolution efforts overlooked. But others know the truth, and they can be expected to step forward when the time comes.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) You should be well on your way to finally making that important decision. Having the support of loved ones will help when crunch time comes. Keep a positive attitude.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) Feeling uneasy about a move might not mean you're having a case of Cancerian wavering. It could be your inner sense is warning you to reassess your situation before taking action.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) Your pride could get in the way of admitting you might have erred. Best to 'fess up now before a small mistake turns into a big misunderstanding. Make the weekend a special family time.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Trying to please someone with a less-than-glowing opinion of something you value could be a waste of time. If you like it, stay with it. The week's end brings an answer to an old mystery.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) There might be time to make a change. But be honest with yourself: Is it what you really want, or one you feel pressured into making? Your answer should determine your next move.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) Change is dominant, but so is caution: Proceed carefully, checking each step along the way to avoid encountering any unwelcome surprises that might be lurking along your path.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) It could be a mistake to rely on someone to keep his or her promise without checking out previous performances. What you learn now could save you from a painful lesson later.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) Taking a strong stand on an issue you feel is too important to ignore could inspire others to follow suit. The weekend is a good time to socialize with old friends and make new ones.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) Your sensitive nature gives you an insight into the problems of someone close to you. Your offer of support could be just what this person needs to start turning his or her life around.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) Financial matters continue to need even more careful analysis than usual. Use caution with investment possibilities. A personal relationship might take an unexpected turn by the week's end.

BORN THIS WEEK: You appreciate the wonders of the world and enjoy sharing your delight with others.

HOLLYWOOD

by Tony Rizzo

HOLLYWOOD -- We now know why Netflix has been concentrating on making original movies that it can show in theaters and make available exclusively for streaming. In the beginning we had HBO, Showtime, Cinemax and the Movie Channel for watching current films. Netflix backed its streaming with TV series content such as "Friends," "The Simpsons" and "The Office," which was immensely popular. Last year Disney pulled its product from Netflix because Disney is starting its own streaming service. Now WarnerMedia has created HBO Max as their streaming service, and as of November, "Friends" will no longer be available to Netflix. As contracts run out, Netflix also will lose "The Fresh Prince of Bel Air," "Pretty Little Liars" and Reese Witherspoon products. Thanks to Disney's acquisition of 20th Century Fox, Netflix also will be losing 30 years of "The Simpsons." Disney's streaming service likely will cost $7, while HBO Max will be $15 or more.

 Among the top 100 celebrity moneymakers is Celine Dion (at No. 100) with $37.6 million, Ryan Seacrest (No. 27) with $71.5 million, Chris Hemsworth (No. 24) with $76.4 million, Ellen DeGeneres (22) with $80.5 million, Beyonce and Jay Z (20) with $81 million, Elton John (19) with $84 million, Dwayne Johnson (15) with $89 million and Phil McGraw (9) with $95 million. Kim Kardashian came in at No. 26 with $72 million and husband Kanye West is No. 4 with $80 million, but Kylie Jenner beat them combined at No. 2 with $170 million. The top grosser of the year? Taylor Swift, with $185 million.

 If you don't remember the classic TV series "The Fugitive" (1963-67), which starred David Janssen, you probably will remember Harrison Ford as "The Fugitive" in the 1993 film that won a best supporting Oscar for Tommy Lee Jones. Now Warner is developing a series reboot for the small screen. No cast been named yet. Vanity Fair is predicting the Emmys will go hostless like this year's Academy Awards show. When Kevin Hart bowed out of emceeing, it was too late to find another host. Last year the Emmys were hosted by "Saturday Night Live's" Michael Che and Colin Hanks, but it wasn't a good fit. So far no one has been asked to emcee the Sept. 22 broadcast. It's amazing how well Renee Zellweger was able to transform herself to look and sound like Judy Garland for the new film "Judy" (out Sept. 27), in which she plays the "The Wizard of Oz" star in 1968-69, her final years. Zellweger was Oscar-nominated for "Bridget Jones's Diary" (2001), "Chicago" (2002) and won an Oscar for "Cold Mountain" in 2003. Judy Garland only won the miniature Oscar they gave to child stars. Maybe Renee can win a real one for her.

GO FIGURE!

by Linda Thistle

KOVELS Antiques & Collecting

By Terry and Kim Kovel

'Pile-O-Gold' ---A paperweight that looks like a forgotten mound of gold coins is a vintage puzzle that has been solved. A pristine example was offered for sale recently with the original box. There is an inscribed leather patch on the bottom, and a small leaflet describing the coins and their history. The leather patch had a message: "Your friendship is more precious than gold." The paperweight was made by the Johnson Bronze Company of New Castle, Pennsylvania. The weights were sold to companies who gave them to customers as gifts. They were very popular with banks, insurance agents, stock brokers, mortgage brokers, real estate agents and other companies that dealt with coins and money. The paperweight is called the "Pile-O-Gold," and the coins picture presidents, captains of industry, scientists, inventors and engineers. Some of the coins have quotes, and all have the name and embossed head of the honored person, plus the name of the job that brought the person fame. A vintage example sold recently for about $50. We are told the pile of gold coins on a desk often fools visitors.

 Q: A friend just told me that a 12 1/2-inch round wooden plate with a center "well" and nine smaller carved wells surrounding it is a gaming board -- not an oyster plate like I thought. It is decorated with painted playing cards so that might be true. Any suggestions? A: It can't be an oyster plate. The food and the washing would destroy the painted cards, and oyster plates usually have four to six wells. That is a generous portion for dinner. There is an old English card game called "Pope Joan" that uses a board like yours. It was known in the 16th century, and still is played today by three to eight players. The game was very popular with families in Victorian times and first recorded in the famous book of card and board game rules by Hoyle in 1814. The game uses the 52-card deck minus the eight of diamonds and making the nine of diamonds an important winning card. All antique game boards are selling well today, and a rare round wooden Pope Joan board sold at auction for a little over $1,000 a few years ago.

Strange BUT TRUE

* It was French playwright and actor Louis Verneuil who made the following sage observation: "The prime purpose of eloquence is to keep other people from talking."
* With only two known to exist, the rarest U.S. postage stamp is an 1868 1-cent Benjamin Franklin Z-Grill, so called because of the shape that was impressed into the stamp. One of the Z-Grills is in the collection of the New York Public Library, and the other was sold in 1998 for $935,000. That's not the end of the story, though; in 2005, the same stamp was traded for a block of stamps valued at $3 million.
* The year 1828 was a sad one for winemakers. For unknown reasons, 80 percent of the bottles of Champagne bottled that year exploded.
* There is a law on the books in Maine that prohibits having your shoes untied in public. I assume that one is not much enforced.

* In 2002, in an effort to be more environmentally friendly, Ireland decided to try to reduce the use of plastic grocery bags by levying a 15-cent tax on each one. It worked, too -- use of the bags dropped by 95 percent.
* Sir Christopher Wren, who designed the famous London landmark St. Paul's Cathedral, was an astronomer, not an architect. His other achievements included developing a method for calculating eclipses and devising a way to measure the rings of Saturn.

 Thought for the Day: "It is easier to lead men to combat, stirring up their passion, than to restrain them and direct them toward the patient labors of peace." -- Andre Gide

Now here's a tip!

by Jo Ann Derson

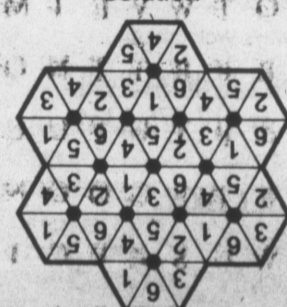

* Yet another use for a microfiber cloth: Keep one in your vehicle to dust the dashboard or remove smudges from your windshield.
* Bring a binder clip and a zip-top plastic bag with you on a flight, and you can put your phone in the bag and clip it up on the seat in front of you for easy viewing. A gallon-size bag, two binder clips and a small bungee work for a tablet.
* "Our family loves to make our own pizza, and we purchase dough from a pizzeria. On pizza nights, I pick up the dough first thing on the way home from work and let it sit in a bowl in the car while I pick up the kids and drive home. It takes about 45 minutes, so it's risen nicely while we've been on the go." -- E.F. in New York
* If you have stainless steel appliances, you might want to try a simple furniture polish to get those surfaces shiny and smudge free. You can use most any commercial spray-on polish, applied with a clean, lint-free rag.

* Peg racks mounted low on the wall near an entranceway can make a swell shoe rack. Hang shoes from pegs by the heel. It's a great way to keep your daily walkers up off the floor!
* "Plastic containers with a serving spout can be used for more than fruit juice and sweet tea! Mine fit a full bag of flour or sugar, and if I open a hole in the bag right where the spout is, I can pour what I need out without even removing the top. Admittedly, it works better for sugar than for flour, but it still makes baking goods easy to store." -- T. in Arkansas

On Tuesday, July 23, at approximately 5:20 p.m., Detectives O'Rourke, O'Brien, Cassidy, Glennon, Bossart and Donovan of the Quincy Police Drug Unit were working in plain clothes operating unmarked police cars. Detectives were conducting surveillance in the Quincy Point section of the city.

Det. Donovan observed a male standing at the corner of Scammell and Martensen Streets texting on his cellphone while scanning back and forth and intently watching the passing traffic. A few minutes later, the male began waving his hand while crossing the street toward the parking lot of the Quincy Credit Union as a black Dodge Ram pickup truck drove toward him through the lot. The male then got into the Dodge front passenger seat. Det. Donovan recognized the driver from past incidents. The Dodge exited the lot out to the street and abruptly turned back into the lot, where he then drove to the side of the (closed) building and stopped. The driver and passenger both leaned toward the center console. In less than 10 seconds, the male exited the vehicle and began walking back toward Martensen Street.

At this point it was the belief of the detectives involved in the surveillance that the male had just conducted a drug transaction with the operator of the Dodge. Detectives Cassidy and Glennon approached the male and identified themselves as police officers. Detective Glennon said, "Hand over what you just bought." Both Detectives noted that the male appeared very nervous and began sweating. The male then feebly said, "I just met with my roommate and he gave me money for rent." Detectives asked the male where the money was and he said, "My landlord has it" (which made no sense).

Det. Glennon observed numerous track marks on the arms of the male and believed him to be an IV drug user. Detective Cassidy advised the male of his rights per Miranda which he stated he understood and agreed to talk. After being told that they knew he was being untruthful, the male said, "OK - I paid $40 for a bag of dope. It's in my wallet." The male handed Det. Glennon his wallet, who then retrieved a knotted plastic corner bag containing tan powder inside a cellophane wrapper from a cigarette pack, which Det. Glennon recognized to be heroin/fentanyl. The male told Det. Glennon that he has purchased dope from the driver on three prior occasions and that he contacts him by using Facebook Messenger.

For his cooperation, the male, a 30-year-old Quincy resident, was advised that he may receive a summons for possession of the drugs and was sent on his way. During this time, Det. Donovan followed the Dodge from the lot to Water Street to the parking lot of Dunkin' Donuts on Franklin Street. When the Dodge exited the lot, Det. Cassidy and Officer Foley stopped the Dodge. Det. Donovan approached the driver's door of the Dodge, removed the operator and advised him that he was under arrest for distribution of a controlled substance.

After being advised of his Miranda rights, the male said that he was just driving through Quincy. When asked if he met with anyone or made any stops, the driver initially said no but then said, "I met my friend Mike. He owed me $10." The driver was unable to provide the male's last name even though he claimed he has known him for a year. Det. Donovan saw that the driver's pupils were pinpointed and asked him when the last time he used drugs. The driver said, "Oh, a few hours ago." When asked if he had drugs on him now, he said, "I have some meth. It's either in my pocket or in my car."

Det. O'Rourke located two small glassine Ziploc bags, one containing white powder residue and the other containing a white crystalline substance believed to be methamphetamine. Det. O'Rourke also located two orange suboxone pills in a cellophane wrapper and a suboxone strip in the driver's door map pocket. Officer Foley and his passive alert narcotics detection canine Charlie conducted a sniff of the driver, which alerted the officers of the presence of narcotic odor from the area of the driver's front left pants pocket. The driver said that he had the bag of methamphetamine in that pocket.

When asked what he was doing in the Dunkin' Donuts parking lot, the driver said, "I was just using - I shot up." Det. Donovan reminded the driver that he had just told detectives that he used drugs a few hours ago. The driver then said, "I think I want to talk to my lawyer."

The driver was transported to the station for booking. The bag of tan powder seized from the male was later tested at the police station by Det. Bossart using a mass spectrometer and a TruNarc Raman spectrometer. The powder tested positive for fentanyl. Det. O'Rourke tested the bag of white crystalline substance seized from the driver using a TruNarc Raman spectrometer. The bag tested positive for methamphetamine.

The driver, a 41-year-old Rockland male, was charged with, "distribution of class A drug (fentanyl), possession of class B drug (suboxone) and possession of class B drug (methamphetamine). Nice Work!"

SOCIAL SECURITY SCAM VARIATIONS: Numerous sources including local residents are reporting a significant increase in bogus contacts from callers claiming to be from Social Security. The threats vary from getting benefits shut off, overpayment, fraud to criminal charges. As always, keep in mind that Social Security makes the initial contact through the mail with instructions to contact them. Once you have made this call, only then will Social Security discuss matters over the telephone. This is usually with a designated representative.

OBITUARIES

Catherine P. Schmitt, 87

A Mass of Christian Burial for Catherine (Kathleen) P. (Burke) Schmitt, a 63-year resident of Quincy, was celebrated July 27 in St. Ann's Church, Quincy.

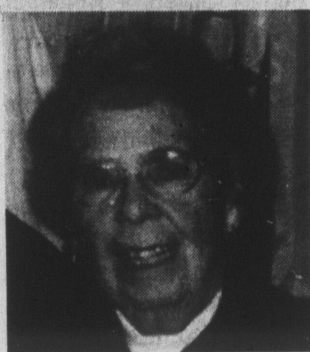

Mrs. Schmitt passed away peacefully July 22. She was 87.

Born in Hyde Park, she was a daughter of the late Bernard and Teresa (Flynn) Burke. Kathleen grew up in Hyde Park and was a 1949 graduate of Hyde Park High School. She went on to earn an associate's degree from Boston Clerical School.

Kathleen was an administrative assistant for the Massachusetts Department of Public Health. An avid volunteer in support of her children and community, she was the secretary for the Quincy Youth Football League, den mother for Cub Scouts Pack 14, and an active volunteer at St. Ann's grammar school.

Kathleen enjoyed her daily workout at the Quincy YMCA late into her 80s. Never idle with her lightning fast knitting needles, she lovingly created Irish knit sweaters, warm socks and mittens, and baby blankets for family members. Her greatest joy came from spending time with her family.

Kathleen was the beloved wife of the late William J. Schmitt Sr. She was the devoted mother of Julie Schmitt-Sullivan and her husband Dennis of Norwell, William J. Schmitt Jr. and his wife Karen of Quincy, Paul Schmitt and his wife Kathyann of Weymouth, and Brian Schmitt and his wife Judith of Hull. Kathleen was the proud "Gram" of Brenda Hill, Whitney Laws, Makenzie, Kellyann, and Ryan Schmitt, and 10 great grandchildren. She was the sister of the late Bernard Burke, Madeline Burke, and Virginia Wallace.

Burial was in Mount Wollaston Cemetery, Quincy.

Funeral arrangements were made by the Keohane Funeral Home, 785 Hancock St., Quincy.

Memorial donations may be made to the Alzheimer's Association MA Chapter, 309 Waverley Oaks Rd., Waltham MA 02452 or the Pat Roche Hospice Residence, 86 Turkey Hill Ln., Hingham MA 02043.

Kenneth D. Burgess, 77

A funeral service for Kenneth D. Burgess, 77, of Quincy, formerly of Pembroke and Plymouth, was held July 27 in St. Joseph Parish, Quincy.

Mr. Burgess died peacefully at home on July 23.

He survived by his loving wife of 59 years Patricia "Patty" (Lyons) Burgess; and was the devoted father of Kim Burgess and her husband Charlie Green of Los Alamos, New Mexico; and Leslie Gomes and her husband Matt of Whitefield, Maine.

He was the loving grandfather of Keeley Gomes. Ken was predeceased by his sisters and brothers Janet (Walter) Bergman, Carolyn (Italo) Mannai, James Burgess, Charlie Burgess and Thomas (Carol) Burgess. He leaves behind several loving nieces and nephews, as well as his good friend Charlie.

Mr. Burgess was a 1960 graduate of Quincy High School where he was a member of the Football Hall of Fame. He was an active member of the Town Rotary, heavily involved in local churches, serving as a Eucharistic minister at both St. Thecla Parish in Pembroke and St. Joseph Parish in Quincy, and he often served in local food pantries. As a friend of Bill W., he mentored and assisted many others in the program.

He and Patty operated Pembroke Florist for over 30 years. Mr. Burgess was a sports enthusiast who coached little league football in Quincy and never missed any of his daughters' field hockey games or his granddaughter's sports and school events. He rarely missed a Quincy/No. Quincy Thanksgiving football game.

He enjoyed vacationing with his family, and telling stories to all who would listen.

Funeral arrangements were made by the Downing Cottage Funeral Home, Hingham.

Memorial donations may be made to the Pan Mass Challenge using ID# SM0357 at <http://pmc.org/SM0357> or mailing to PMC, 77 Fourth Ave., Needham MA 02494 noting ID# SM0357 on your check.

Michael R. Johnstone, 39

A funeral service for Michael R. Johnstone, age 39, of Quincy was held July 26 in the Dennis Sweeney Funeral Home, 74 Elm St., Quincy.

Mr. Johnstone died suddenly July 17.

A lifelong Quincy resident, he worked in tech support.

The beloved son of Helen M. (Powers) Johnstone Glennon of Mineral Bluff, GA, and the late George R. Johnstone, he was the stepson of Fred Glennon; beloved brother of Kristina L. Casavant and her husband Brett of Whitman; half-brother of Cynthia Gonzalez of Quincy, George "Scotty" Johnstone of E. Bridgewater and Kelly Janerico of E. Bridgewater; loving uncle of Cameron and Avery Casavant; and is also survived by many aunts, uncles and cousins.

Dr. Constantine P. Kalantzis

A funeral service for Dr. Constantine P. "Costas" "Charlie" Kalantzis, age 80, of Quincy, was held Monday in St. Catherine's Greek Orthodox Church, Braintree.

Dr. Kalantzis died after a brief illness on July 25.

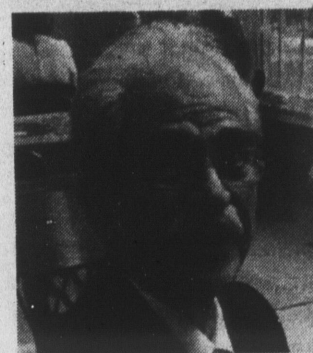

Born in Georgitsi, Sparta, Greece, he was the son of the late Panagiotis (Peter) Kalangis and Christina (Gouzoulis) Kalangis of Boston.

Before emigrating to the United States in 1959 he spent eight years at the Theological School in Corinth. Shortly after his arrival, Dr. Kalantzis attended Boston State College where he earned a Bachelor of Science degree. He continued his education studying English and earned a Master and Doctorate in bilingual education from Boston University within three years.

He was a proud member of Phi Delta Kappa, a professional organization for educators, where he served as past president as well as a member of the board.

Dr. Kalantzis worked at Boston English High School as a teacher and administrator for over 30 years. Following a successful career in Education, he prepared taxes for HR Block in Quincy for 15 years.

For over 60 years, Dr. Kalantzis was an active member of St. Catherine's Greek Orthodox Church of Quincy, serving as parish council president. During that time, he was instrumental in the planning of the new church in Braintree. He enjoyed spending time with neighborhood friends, working on the family cars, playing cards and taking an occasional trip to the casino. He appreciated nature and the simple things in life. Most of all, Dr. Kalantzis's greatest joy was spending time with his grandchildren.

He was the beloved husband of the late Effie Kalantzis. The two would have celebrated their 52nd wedding anniversary next month. Devoted father of Laura Menadue and her husband Derek of Braintree, Christina Kalantzis of Manhattan, Maria Weber and her husband Mark of Franklin. Cherished Papou of Constantine "Costa," Katrina, Arianna, Nicholas "Niko," Alexander "Alex," Charles "Charlie." Brother of Maria Kapsaskis of Boston, Anna Giannopoulos of Arlington and the late Athanasia Papadakis and Reverend George Kalangis. Constantine also leaves behind many beloved nieces and nephews.

Interment at Pine Hill Cemetery, Quincy.

Funeral arrangements were made by Keohane Funeral Home, 785 Hancock St., Quincy.

Sierra Club Endorses Isenberg In Ward 6

The Massachusetts Sierra Club has endorsed Quincy Ward 6 Candidate Will Isenberg in the city's 2019 City Council race.

"As a coastal city, Quincy will bear the brunt of climate change; indeed, it's already being felt. That's why we need climate champions like Will Isenberg in office," said the organization's political committee chair Jordan Meehan. "He is ready to fight for time-tested policies from accelerating renewable energy growth to increasing efficiency standards for new buildings with the urgency necessary to keep Quincy a thriving community."

OBITUARY

Francis X. Ryan

FRANCIS X. RYAN

Cambridge.

From March 1990 until he retired in May 2007, he worked as budget officer for Region 1 of the U. S. General Services Administration (GSA) where he oversaw a budget of approximately $100,000,000. In 2005, Mr. Ryan was temporarily appointed to serve as acquisition executive for GSA Region 1 where he was tasked with reorganization and interpretation of contract policy and overseeing the issuance of all contract warrants in Region 1. He also received numerous awards for meritorious achievement during his tenure with GSA.

Mr. Ryan was an ardent golfer and enjoyed golf principally at Ponkapoag Golf Course. He also shot a hole in one at Farm Neck Golf Club in Oak Bluffs, Martha's Vineyard. He also traveled extensively throughout the United States and always enjoyed golf at the many destinations to which he traveled. Mr. Ryan made his home between North Quincy and South Carolina.

Son of the late Francis P. Ryan and Kathleen (Sullivan) Ryan. Stepson of the late Margaret E. Ryan. Brother of William P. Lennon and his wife Ellen of Falmouth, Michael P. Ryan and his wife Claire of South Carolina, Paul J. Lennon and his wife Maureen of Idaho, Maureen Lennon and her husband Steven Vendig of Florida, John P. Ryan and his wife Jeanne-Marie of Needham, Maura Ryan of Arlington and Margaret Corbett and her husband Barry of North Reading. Also survived by many loving nieces and nephews.

Funeral arrangements were made by Keohane Funeral Home, 785 Hancock St., Quincy.

Interment at Massachusetts National Cemetery, Bourne.

Memorial donations may be made to the New England Home for Vietnam Veterans, 17 Court St., Boston, MA 02108.

A funeral Mass for Francis Xavier Ryan was celebrated Tuesday in Sacred Heart Church, Quincy.

Mr. Ryan died July 26.

He was born in Boston on March 1, 1947 to the late Francis P. Ryan and Kathleen (Sullivan) Ryan. He was also known by "Frank" and "Fred." Mr. Ryan graduated from St. Columbkille High School in 1964 where he was elected president of his senior class and was a captain of both the baseball and football teams.

He received his undergraduate degree in business administration from Suffolk University in 1968, where he majored in accounting. Mr. Ryan also played on the Suffolk University baseball team and was awarded an athletic scholarship after walking on as a freshman.

In October 1968, at the height of the Vietnam War, he enlisted in the U.S. Air Force and was honorably discharged in September 1972 with the rank of sergeant E-4. Mr. Ryan served in Vietnam at Phu Cat Air Base in the Central Highlands from November 1970 to November 1971 and was awarded the Vietnam Service Medal. He also was awarded the National Defense Service Medal, the U.S. Air Force Commendation Medal and a second Air Force Commendation Medal with Oak Leaf Cluster for his service in Vietnam.

After his military service, Mr. Ryan received his MBA from Suffolk University in June 1973 with special emphasis in finance and economics.

From April 1974 to March 1988, he served as a budget officer with the U.S. Coast Guard where he received numerous awards for meritorious performance. Among Mr. Ryan's awards were the Comptroller's Award for Excellence, which was presented to him by Drew Lewis, then U.S. secretary for transportation. Mr. Ryan also received an award for meritorious achievement in budget and finance, which was presented by Elizabeth Dole, then U.S. secretary for transportation.

From March 1988 to March 1990, Mr. Ryan worked as a budget officer at the Volpe Transportation Center in Kendall Square,
